Introduction

This new edition of English Vocabulary in Use: pre-intermediate & intermediate still retains the features that made the first edition so popular:

- The format of presentation on the left-hand page and practice on the right-hand page.
- Approaching vocabulary in a variety of ways: topics (e.g. Food), word formation (e.g. Prefixes), words and grammar (e.g. Uncountable and plural nouns), collocation and phrases (e.g. Make, do and take), functions (e.g. Apologies, excuses and thanks), concepts (e.g. Time), varieties of English (e.g. Formal and informal English), etc.
- A student-friendly Answer key, including not only correct answers to right/wrong exercises, but also possible answers for more open-ended exercises.
- Usage notes that are ideal for self-study learners.
- A complete Index at the back of the book, listing all the target words and phrases with a phonemic transcription to help you with pronunciation.

What is different about the new edition?

Colour

The first thing you will notice is that the new edition is in colour. This makes the text and the artwork more attractive, and it also makes the book easier for you to use: the different sections and headings are now clearer, and the usage notes are shown against their own colour background, so you can find them and read them more easily.

Use of the Cambridge International Corpus

This new edition has made extensive use of the Cambridge International Corpus of written and spoken English. This has been important in two ways:

- the frequency information in the Corpus has helped to guide the selection of words and phrases in the book and ensure that the vocabulary will be suitable for pre-intermediate and intermediate learners of English;
- example sentences are the same or similar to those in the Corpus. In other words, the examples show you words and phrases being used in their most typical contexts.

Collocation and phrases

The new edition concentrates even more on showing words in common collocations and phrases. For example, when you study different meanings of see (Unit 27), you will learn that it often appears in these phrases: I see, I see what you mean, I'll see what (he says), etc. In a unit on physical appearance (Unit 48), you will meet these common collocations: blonde hair, tall and slim, medium height, etc.

New units

In response to suggestions from teachers and students, there are now six completely new units in the book:

Likes, preferences and interests (Unit 19)

Frequently asked questions (Unit 20)

Common responses (Unit 21)

Have and have got (Unit 25)

Leave, catch and let (Unit 28)

Global problems (Unit 88)

Many other units have been significantly revised, e.g. The place where you live (Unit 54), City life (Unit 65), Life in the country (Unit 66), In the office (Unit 72), Music (Unit 77), Computers and the Internet (Unit 81).

Better use of space

The usage notes are shown against a colour background and most have been placed in the lefthand margin; this makes them easier to see and read, and creates more space on the page. As a result, there are now more pictures in the new edition, more example sentences, and more new words and phrases to learn.

I very much hope you will enjoy working with this new edition of English Vocabulary in Use: pre-intermediate and intermediate.

Using this book

Who is this book for?

English Vocabulary in Use: pre-intermediate and intermediate has been written to help learners at this level to improve their English. It has been designed for students who are studying on their own, but it can also be used by a teacher in the classroom with a group of students.

How is the book organised?

The book has 100 two-page units. The left-hand page explains the new words and phrases chosen for that unit. They are all highlighted in bold and most units contain approximately 25 new words or phrases. The right-hand page gives you a chance to check your understanding through a series of exercises which practise the new vocabulary.

There is an Answer key at the back of the book. This gives correct answers to exercises with 'right' or 'wrong' solutions, and also possible answers for exercises which do not have 'right' or 'wrong' solutions.

There is an Index at the back of the book. This lists all the words and phrases introduced in the book and refers you to the unit or units where these words/phrases appear. The Index also includes a phonemic transcription for most of the words, and on page 243 you are given special help with the pronunciation of approximately 200 words which present particular problems for many learners of English.

This is the page that introduces the new vocabulary for each topic or area of language. First of all, the vocabulary is divided into a number of sections (A, B, C, etc.) with simple clear titles. Then, within each section, new words/phrases are explained using a number of different techniques:

- 1 A short definition.
 - e.g. unemployed (= without a job); hang on (= wait); feel like (= want or desire infml) The abbreviations fml or infml tell you if a word is either 'formal' or 'informal'.
- 2 A short explanation.
 - e.g. He admitted stealing her money, but denied taking the computer (= he said 'yes' he took the money, but 'no' he didn't take the computer).

- 3 A synonym or opposite. e.g. dreadful (= terrible); dirty (opp clean)
- 4 In a situation. With some words and phrases it is easier to see their meaning when they are in context, e.g. [This is from a text about a motoring accident] '... The driver of the Mercedes was OK, but the other driver was badly injured, and both cars were badly damaged.'
- 5 A picture or diagram. This seems the obvious way to explain a large number of concrete nouns and verbs.

e.g. carrot

Go along here and turn left.

For many of the new words/phrases there are also sentence examples which show the words in context in order to consolidate the meaning and illustrate any special features.

e.g. My boyfriend gets very jealous when I talk to other boys.

The plane appeared in the sky, then suddenly disappeared behind a cloud. Some people can't stand (= hate) working at the weekend. [can't stand + -ing form]

Finally, a big effort has been made to introduce new words alongside other words that often appear with them (this is called 'collocation').

e.g. miss the bus; a strong accent; the car broke down; it's vitally important; fasten your seat belt; go on holiday; give someone a hand; to a certain extent; a terrible pain, etc. There are many more examples of collocation in this new edition, and with the support of the Cambridge International Corpus you can now be sure that the examples included are some of the most important ones.

This page contains the exercises to practise the new vocabulary presented on the left-hand page. In general, the first exercise practises the form of some of the new words, and then there are further exercises which focus on the meaning. In most units there is at least one exercise which gives learners a chance to think about and practise new vocabulary in relation to their own lives, and/or a task which invites learners to do something with the vocabulary outside of the book. In every unit there is a range of exercise types to help to maintain your interest.

How should I use the book?

The first four units teach you some important words and phrases, but they also give you information about vocabulary, plus ideas and techniques to help you learn vocabulary. Do these units first, then work through the book studying the units which interest you.

If you go to English lessons, you may also want to study Unit 5. This introduces vocabulary that is often used by teachers or needed by students in the classroom, e.g. cassette recorder, clean the board, Could I borrow a pen?, What does that mean?, etc.

Everything you need is in the book. The new vocabulary is explained on the left-hand page, and the exercises have an Answer key at the back of the book. But it is still important to have your own dictionary. A good bilingual dictionary will give you support in your first language, and a monolingual dictionary produced for intermediate learners will give you added practice in English. Use these to help you. (See Unit 3 for more information and ideas.)

Finally, you can visit the 'in Use' website at http://www.cambridge.org/elt/inuse/.

Good luck.

Learning and revising with this book

Have a routine

A routine means doing certain things often and in the same way. If you are using this book for self-study (= to study alone), it helps to have a routine. So, how much time can you spend on the book each day or each week? Here are some ideas:

- if you are studying a new unit, spend at least (= a minimum of) half an hour or 45 minutes
- if you are revising (= studying a unit for a second or third time), five or ten minutes is very useful.

So, plan longer periods for new units and shorter periods for revision.

Using the book

Do different things to maintain your interest. (= keep your interest high) For example:

- 1 Don't study the units in the same order as the book. Choose (= select) units that interest you (= are interesting for you).
- 2 When you do a unit, you can read the whole (= all) of the left-hand page (= page on the left), then do the exercises. Or, do the exercises first, then read the left-hand page if there is a problem.
- 3 Be active when you are learning. For example:
 - when you are reading the left-hand page, use a highlighter pen to mark new or interesting vocabulary;
 - practise saying the words aloud (= speaking them), so you can pronounce them (= say the pronunciation), and also silently (= without a noise) in your head to help you to remember them;
 - put new words in your own notebook using some of the ideas from Unit 2.

Revision

It's easy to forget words that you learn, but if you revise for short periods, it helps you to remember words and make them part of your active vocabulary. Here are some ideas.

1 Do exercises in pencil. Check your answers when you finish, then rub them out (= remove them using a rubber). Later, come back and do the exercises again. Use the left-hand page if you have a problem.

- 2 When you read a left-hand page for a second time, have a blank piece of paper (= paper with no writing on it) with you. When you come to a new word in bold with a definition in (brackets), cover the definition (= put the paper over it) and try to define it (= give the meaning/definition).
- 3 Revise for short periods but do it often. Five minutes a day (NOT five minutes per day) is probably better than half an hour a week; but half an hour a week is probably better than two hours a month.
- 4 Be active when you revise, e.g. test yourself, practise the pronunciation, write down important words and phrases in your notebook with example sentences.

- Read these questions. What do you think? (Answers are on the opposite page.)
 - 1 Is it better to plan regular self-study, or just study when you've got some free time?
 - 2 Is it a good idea to study the units in the same order as they appear in the book?
 - 3 Is it a good idea to write down new words in a notebook when you are studying a unit?
 - 4 Is it necessary to revise vocabulary (= study it again for a second or third time)?
 - 5 Is it better to revise vocabulary occasionally for long periods of time, or is it better to revise regularly for short periods of time?

Find your way round the book.

- Turn to the Topic units in the Contents on pages iv-v.
- Take a blank piece of paper and cover the right-hand side of the page with the examples.
- Read the list of unit titles, and write down your own examples one or two for each unit.
- Are there any unit titles you don't understand? Are there any units where you can't think of examples? If so, turn to that unit and find out what it is about.

You could use similar titles in your own vocabulary notebook (see Unit 2).

1.3 Complete the table.

noun	verb
definition	define revision	***************************************
pronunciation
choice	***************************************
interest	***************************************

1.4 There is a mistake with the underlined words. Can you correct each one?

- 1 Did you make all of the exercises?
- 2 I studied for one half hour.
- 3 Do you always read the left page first?
- 4 I passed twenty minutes on the first exercise.
- 5 I read the all page.

1.5 True or False? If the sentence is false, rewrite it to make it true. Write in pencil.

- 1 In this book, most of the important new vocabulary is shown in bold print. True
- 2 Definitions/explanations of new words are often in brackets after the word.
- 3 A routine means doing certain things in a different way each time.
- 4 If you maintain something at a level, it means you keep it at the same level.
- 5 At least 50 people means a maximum of 50 people.
- 6 If you write something then rub it out, you remove it from the page.
- 7 If you do something silently, you do it without a noise.
- 8 Revision means studying something for the first time.
- 9 If you read a whole book, you read all of it.
- 10 A blank piece of paper is full of writing.

Check your answers. Look at any wrong answers carefully, then rub them out. Do the exercise again tomorrow.

Keeping a vocabulary notebook

Organising your notebook

Give each page a title, e.g. sport, education, verbs followed by an -ing form, etc. When you learn new words and phrases, write them on a suitable page.

B

What do I need to record?

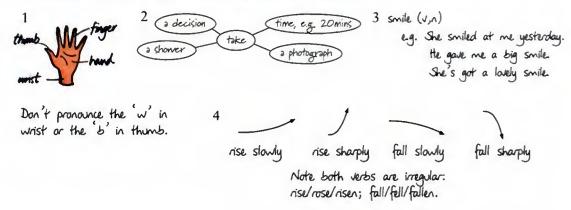

what?	how?	example
Meaning	a translation	remember = lembrar [in Portuguese]
	b definition/explanation	A pond is an area of water smaller than a lake.
	c synonym or opposite	awful (= terrible); ugly (opp beautiful)
	d picture	saucepan
	e example sentence	My hands were cold, so I put on my gloves.
Pronunciation	phonemic symbols	ache etk or your own system	ache [like 'make']
Part of speech	noun (n), verb (v)	gloves (n); remember (v); careful (adj)
Grammar	make a note +	enjoy + -ing form; I enjoy going to parties.
	example sentence	weather (uncountable); We had lovely
	•	weather in Italy.
Common partners	phrase or sentence	make a mistake; on the phone; (a) black coffee (= coffee without milk)
Special style	make a note	<pre>purchase (= buy: formal) kids (= children: informal)</pre>

You don't need to record all of these things for every word or phrase. The most important thing is to show the words in typical examples. Leave space in your notebook as well, then you can come back and add more information later if you learn something new.

Organising words on the page

Don't just write lists of individual words. Put words together that appear together, e.g. blonde hair (opp black hair), get off the bus (= go out of the bus). Make the pages interesting with pictures, diagrams and example sentences.

Using a dictionary

A

What dictionaries do I need?

Buy a good bilingual dictionary and a good English-English dictionary. The bilingual dictionary is easier for you to understand; but it's also good for you to work in English as much as possible.

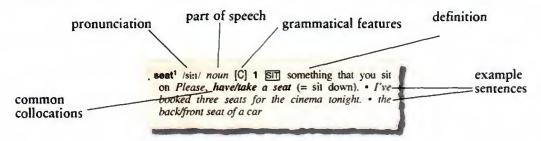

large dictionaries	medium-sized dictionaries
Cambridge Advanced Learner's Dictionary	Cambridge Learner's Dictionary
Longman Dictionary of Contemporary English	Longman Active Study Dictionary
Oxford Advanced Learner's Dictionary	Oxford Wordpower Dictionary

What information does a dictionary give me?

Look up a word (= find a word in a dictionary) and you will get this information.

- the meaning, e.g. homesick = unhappy because you are away from home for a long period
- the pronunciation (using phonemic symbols), e.g. island /ailand/, lose /lu:2, tiny taini
- word grammar, e.g. advice (U) (= uncountable noun), begin (began, begun) (= the past tense and past participle)
- common collocations (see Unit 12), e.g. do homework (NOT make); It depends on you (NOT of)
- example phrases or sentences, e.g. The train leaves from platform seven.
- sometimes synonyms or opposites, e.g. polite (syn = courteous; opp = impolite)

C

How can I use my dictionary?

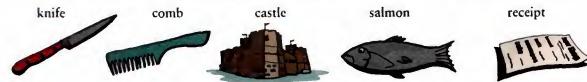

When you look up a word, put a tick (\checkmark) next to it. Each time you return to a page with a tick, look at it quickly to check you remember the word.

When you see a new word or phrase in a text, first try to guess the meaning (= try to think of the meaning from the context), then carry on (= continue) reading to see (= find out) if your guess is correct. Use your dictionary to check the meaning. (= find out if the meaning is correct)

Don't just read definitions. The example phrases and sentences show you how a word or phrase is used, and they often help you to understand the meaning more clearly. If you look up a word in a bilingual dictionary and get several different translations, check in a monolingual dictionary to see which translation is the best one in the context. Remember that many words have more than one meaning. The first meaning in the dictionary is not always the one you want. Read through the different meanings.

- 3.1 Complete these sentences about dictionary use.

 - 2 Dictionaries show the using phonemic symbols.
 - 3 Dictionaries will tell you if a noun is countable or
 - 4 Dictionaries show synonyms and where they exist.
 - 5 If you meet a word you don't know, you can try to the meaning from the context, or you can it in a dictionary.
- 3.2 Right or wrong? If the answer is wrong, correct it.
 - 1 Advice is a countable noun. Wrong (advice is an uncountable noun)
 - 2 Homesick means you are unhappy living at home and you want to leave.
 - 3 You don't make homework, you do homework.
 - 4 Carry on means the same as continue.
 - 5 The opposite of polite is unpolite.
 - 6 The past tense of begin is begun.
 - 7 Dirty is an adjective.
 - 8 If you look up a word, you find the meaning in a dictionary.
 - 9 Trains arrive at and leave from platforms.
 - 10 Depend is followed by the preposition of.
- 3.3 In the word 'island' latland, the letter 's' is silent (= not pronounced). Use your dictionary to find the silent letters in these words. (Do not include the letter 'c' at the end of a word.)

- 3.4 Use a dictionary to find the answers to these questions about words on the left-hand page.
 - 1 What does tiny mean?
 - 2 How do you pronounce lose? (Is it the same as 'choose' or 'chose'?)
 - 3 What is the opposite of lose a game?
 - 4 What are the past tense and past participle of the verb choose?
 - 5 What noun is formed from the verb choose?
 - 6 What part of speech is homesick?
 - 7 What two verbs often go before homesick?

Dictionaries usually show stress with a ' before the main syllable, e.g. re'turn.

Dictionaries show the pronunciation of a word using phonemic symbols, e.g. book buk, before /bifo:/, cinema /sinomo/, and so on.

Every word has one or more syllables, e.g. 'book' has one syllable, 'before' has two syllables, 'cinema' has three syllables, and so on.

For pronunciation, it is important to know which syllable has the main stress, e.g. on 'before' it is the second syllable (before), and on 'cinema' it is the first syllable (cinema), and so on.

brackets (hyphen question mark? full stop. comma ,

Nouns and verbs with the same form

Many words in English function as noun and verb, or verb and adjective, or noun and adjective, with the same form.

What's the answer? (noun) I must clean my room. (verb) I don't like the cold. (noun) Answer the question. (verb) It's a clean room. (adj) I don't like cold weather. (adj)

The same word form can have different meanings, but this unit looks at examples where the meaning is the same or similar, and concentrates on nouns and verbs with the same form.

brake (= stop a car using the brake on the floor) diet (= eat less to lose weight) guess (= give an answer without knowing the facts)

Many common words can function as noun and verb with the same form and meaning: drink, rest, look, cost, swim, wash, push, pull, reply, kiss, chat (= a casual conversation infml) [also practise (v) and practice (n)].

B Which verb?

It is often more natural in English to use the verb + noun structure (e.g. had a guess) and not the verb (e.g. guessed). You need to know which verbs to use with the nouns.

verb	verb + noun
I didn't know the answer, so I guessed.	I didn't know the answer, so I had a guess

Compound nouns

Formation

A compound noun is formed from two words, and occasionally three, to create a single new idea.

dining room (= room where you eat meals) science fiction (= stories about the future) writing paper (= paper for writing letters) mother tongue (= your first language) bus driver (= person who drives buses) film star (e.g. Tom Cruise, Meg Ryan) income tax (= tax you pay on your salary) dishwasher (= machine for washing dishes) brother-in-law (= your sister's husband or wife's brother) babysitter (= person who looks after children when parents are out) box office (= place where you buy cinema or theatre tickets)

B One word or two?

Some short common compound nouns are written as one word, e.g. bedroom, postman; a few are written with a hyphen, e.g. T-shirt, make-up (= stuff you put on the face, often on lips and around eyes, to be more attractive); but most are written as two words, e.g. credit card, bus stop. Use a dictionary to check if necessary.

C Pronunciation

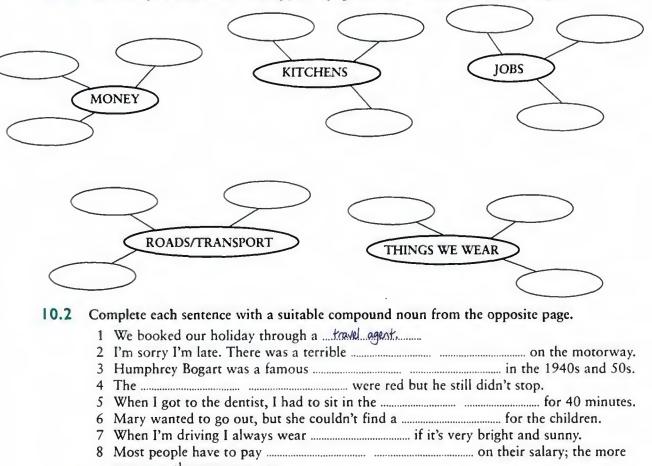

The main stress is usually on the first part, e.g. post office, income tax, but sometimes it is on both parts, e.g. science fiction, mother tongue. Use a dictionary to check if necessary.

Forming new compounds

One part of a compound often forms the basis for a number of compound nouns.

postman	film star	toothbrush	living room waiting room chat room (= an area for communication on the internet)
postbox	pop star	toothpaste
post office	rock star	toothache

10.1 Find compound nouns on the opposite page connected with each of these topics.

working. 10 We waited at the for 20 minutes, then three arrived at the same time. 11 My brother loves _____, but I never read stuff like that about the future. 12 Your jeans were dirty so I put them in the with mine.

Compound adjectives

Formation and pronunciation

A compound adjective is formed from two words, and occasionally three. The second part is often a present participle (e.g. good-looking) or a past participle (e.g. well-known). They usually have a hyphen before a noun, (e.g. a well-known actress, a good-looking man) and we usually pronounce both parts with equal stress.

Describing people

Many compound adjectives describe a person's appearance, character and situation.

This is Bill. He isn't well known (= famous), he isn't well off (= rich), and nobody says he's good looking (= very nice/attractive to look at). But he's a nice man - kind, friendly and easy going (= relaxed and easy to be with). Here he's wearing a short-sleeved shirt and a brand-new (= completely new) hat.

'Well' and 'badly'

These adverbs combine with many past participles to form compound adjectives. We can use both of them with most of these participles, e.g. well-paid or badly-paid (NOT badly-known).

- a well-organised team
- a well-equipped computer room
- a well-written story
- a well-known writer (= famous)
- a well-paid job (= good salary)
- a badly-behaved child (= acting in a bad way)
- a badly-dressed young man (= wearing old or
- dirty clothes)

A 'five-minute' walk

We often combine a number and a singular noun to form a compound adjective. The nouns in bold in these sentences, e.g. walk, hotel are often used with the particular adjectives.

It's a ten-minute walk to the shop. (= a walk of ten minutes)

He works in a four-star hotel. (= a hotel with a rating of four stars)

Our flight finally left after a two-hour delay. (= the plane was two hours late)

The winner was a ten-year-old girl. (= a girl who is ten years old)

Collocation (word partners)

What is collocation?

If you want to use a word naturally, you need to learn the other words that often go with it. This can be different from language to language. For example, in English we say:

I missed the bus. (= I didn't catch the bus) (NOT I lost the bus)

He had to go to hospital; it's a serious injury. (= a bad injury) (NOT a grave injury) She was bitterly disappointed (= very disappointed/unhappy) with her exam result.

Verb + noun

The meaning of many of these examples may be clear, but did you know these verbs and nouns go together? Are they the same or different in your language?

Adverb + adjective

The underlined adverbs in 1-3 mean very, the adverbs in 4-5 mean fully/completely. In each case, we often use these adverbs with the adjectives that follow them. Notice also the phrases in bold.

Idioms and fixed expressions

What is an idiom?

An idiom is a group of words with a meaning that is different from the individual words. Sometimes the meaning is easy to understand; sometimes it is difficult to understand from the individual words. These examples move from 'easy to understand' to 'more difficult to understand'.

Pairs of idioms

These pairs are related in meaning and sometimes they are used together.

B

Excuses and promises means to be late because of a problem that you cannot control.

Phrasal verbs (1): form and meaning

Formation

A phrasal verb is a verb + adverb or preposition, and occasionally a verb + adverb and preposition.

The price of petrol is going up (= increasing) again.

He fell over (= fell to the ground) and hurt his knee.

She's trying to find out (= learn/discover) the name of that new hotel.

Who's going to look after (= take care of) the children when their mother is in hospital? If you don't understand the meaning, look it up. (= find the meaning in a dictionary) He doesn't get on with (= have a good relationship with) his parents. (verb + adv + prep)

B

Meaning

Sometimes the adverb or preposition doesn't change the meaning, but makes it sound more natural.

I didn't wake up until 7 o'clock.

Hurry up or we'll be late.

Sit down and be quiet.

I'm saving up for a new computer.

She stood up and went over to the door.

He told me to lie down on the bed.

Sometimes an adverb adds a particular meaning. For example, back can mean 'return'. I'm going to take that jacket back to the shop; it's too small.

You can look at the books but remember to put them back on the shelf.

More often, the adverb or preposition changes the meaning of the verb: 'take off' doesn't mean the same as 'take', and 'get on' doesn't mean the same as 'get'. Here are some examples:

It took her a long time to get over (= get better/recover from) her illness.

We'll take a short break and then carry on (= continue) with the meeting.

My wife has decided to give up (= stop) smoking.

I can't make any sandwiches – we've run out of bread. (= no bread is left; it is finished)
I've told them we can't put the meeting off. (= change the time of the meeting to a later date)

Multiple meanings

Be careful: many phrasal verbs have more than one meaning.

It was so hot I had to take off (= remove) my jacket.

I'm always nervous when the plane takes off. (= leaves the ground)

I've got a lot of work to get through (= finish) before Friday. I tried phoning him, but I couldn't get through. (= make contact and talk to him)

I picked up most of the rubbish. (= took it from a place, using my hands) I have to pick Jane up (= collect her in my car) from the station.

23.1	Co	mplete the phrasal verbs. Remember to put the verb into the correct form.

		I don't really get on with
		She came in and took off
		I've decided to give up
		Who is going to look after?
	8	I went to the garage to pick up

- 23.4 Write two sentences for each of these phrasal verbs to show their different meanings.

Phrasal verbs (2): grammar and style

Grammar: intransitive verbs

Some phrasal verbs are intransitive. They don't need an object after the verb, and we cannot put another word between different parts of the verb.

He grew up in a city. (≈ spent his childhood/developed into an adult) (NOT He grew in a city up.)

Don't wait out there. Please come in. (= enter)

I'm going to stay in (= stay at home) this evening.

We set off (= started the journey; usually a long journey) at about 7.30.

Grammar: transitive verbs

Many phrasal verbs are transitive: they need a direct object after the verb. You can usually put the object between the different parts of the verb, or after the phrasal verb.

Put on your shoes. ✓ Turn on the TV. ✓ Take off your coat. ✓ Put your shoes on. ✓ Turn the TV on. ✓ Take your coat off. ✓

If the object is a pronoun, it must go in the middle.

Put them on. ✓ (Put on them.) Turn it on. ✓ (Turn on it.) Take it off. ✓ (Take off it.)

C

In dictionaries

You can use a dictionary to check the grammar. Most dictionaries show it like this:

carry on, get by (= intransitive phrasal verb)

I can get by in French. (= I can manage in French, but I don't speak it well.)

put sth←→on, throw sth←→away (= transitive phrasal verb)

Did you throw those books away? (= get rid of them/put them in a rubbish bin)

Did you throw away those books?

get over sth, look after sb/sth (= verb + preposition + object)

Maria will look after (= take care of) the children. (Maria will look after them.)

D

Style: formal or informal?

Most phrasal verbs are more common in spoken English. In written English there is often a more formal word with the same meaning. (The other words in bold are often used with these verbs.)

make sth up = invent/create sth (from your imagination), e.g. We had to make up a story. leave sth out = omit sth (= decide not to do sth), e.g. You can leave out question 7. sort sth out = solve sth (such as a problem), e.g. We asked the computer guy to sort it out. turn sb/sth down = reject sth (= say no to sth), e.g. I offered him £50, but he turned it down.

Some phrasal verbs are used in written English if there is no other easy way to express the meaning.

wake up, e.g. I always wake up early, even at weekends.

break down (= go wrong/stop working), e.g. The car broke down on the motorway. take off (= leave the ground), e.g. The plane couldn't take off because of bad weather. break into sth (= enter by force, often illegally), e.g. Thieves broke into the house and stole £500.

24.1	Correct any mistakes with word order in these sentences. Be careful: some are correct.
	1 He's putting his boots on.
	2 I told the children I'd pick up them after school.
	3 She grew on a farm up.
	4 We set off very early this morning.

	6 I think she made that story up.
	7 We know there were two thieves, but do you know how they broke the house into? 8 I said I'd look after them if necessary.
24.2	Make these texts more informal by changing the underlined verbs to phrasal verbs.

	2 She told us to enter, but then we had to remove our shoes.
	 3 The teacher told half the class to invent a story to go with the picture in our books, while the other half did Exercise 5. She said we could all omit Exercise 4 if we wanted t 4 I don't know why he rejected my offer of help because the company is in a lot of trouble and they've got no one to solve the problems.

Have and have got

Have vs have got

We can use have or have got to talk about possessions, relationships, illnesses and some other states. Have got is more common in spoken English.

I've got an old CD player.

I haven't got a car at the moment.

She's got two brothers.

Have you got the time? (= What time is it?)

He's got a headache. It hasn't got a swimming pool.

1 In negative sentences, we can use haven't got or don't have. I haven't got a car/I don't have a car. (NOT I haven't a car.)

We don't use got in short answers, and it isn't common in the past tense.
 A: Have you got any brothers or sisters?
 B: No, I haven't. (NOT No, I haven't got)
 I had a car when I was at college. (NOT I had got)

3 The verb form used in the question is usually the same in the answer.

A: Have you got a car?

B: Yes, (I do).

B: Yes, (I have).

B

Have + noun

When the same word can be a noun or a verb, e.g. wash, it is common to use have + the noun, and not the verb on its own, e.g. I'm going to have a wash. (NOT I'm going to wash.) Have got is not used here.

Go: uses and expressions

NOTE

here

tomorrow.

There is a similar difference between bring and take:
Take the mobile phone with you, then Peter can use it. He can bring it back

Come vs go

With go the movement is usually away from the speaker; with come the movement is towards the speaker. For example, you are at school and the time is 9.30 am.

I had to go to Jimmy's to pick up some books. Then I went to the post office before I came to school.

Sometimes the speaker imagines they are in another place. When Thomas meets Marta in Spain, he invites her to stay at his home in Switzerland. He says:

'Would you like to come and visit me in Bern?' (He lives there, so her movement is towards him.)

We can also imagine that the listener is in a different place. Talking to Marta, Thomas says:

'I'll come to your flat at 7.30 pm.' (She will be at home, so his movement is towards her.)

If you look at (= look carefully) the map, you can see (= are able to see) the mountains on the left.

He ran into me because he wasn't looking. (= paying attention) [the speaker seems angry] He ran into me because he didn't see me. (= wasn't able to see me) [the speaker is not angry]

Sometimes two verbs are possible in one context; sometimes only one.

I saw/watched a great programme on TV last night. [For TV, we can use either verb.] I saw a great film last night at the cinema. [For the cinema, we only use see.]

C Hear and listen (to) Hear means to be able to hear; listen (to) means to pay attention to things you hear. Compare:

I couldn't hear what she said. (= I was physically unable to hear)

I can sometimes hear the trains from my bedroom. (= I am able to hear without trying) I don't know what she said because I wasn't listening. (= I wasn't paying attention)

I was listening to the radio (= paying attention to it), when I heard a strange noise outside.

Sometimes we can use hear (but not in the progressive form) to mean 'listen to'.

I know he's dead - I heard it on the radio last night. (= I heard it when I was listening)

D Touch

Don't touch those wires - they're dangerous. You have to press that button to start the machine. I don't feel safe up here. Could you hold my hand?

Partitives: a bag of ..., a bit of ...

There are many different words used to describe a particular quantity of something.

A Containers (e.g. a bag) and contents (e.g. of shopping)

With uncountable nouns

Certain words make uncountable nouns countable in order to describe a specific quantity, e.g. Has anyone got a sheet of paper I can have? Other examples are:

a piece of toast a slice of ham a piece of cake a slice of bread (= a thin piece) a piece of wood a drop of milk (= a little)

We use piece with the nouns above and some abstract nouns, e.g. a piece of advice, but the most common phrase in spoken English is a bit: we use it with a wide range of nouns.

a bit of advice

a bit of bread a bit of luck

a bit of time

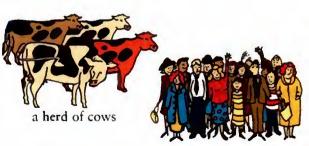

a bit of news

C A pair of ...

Some nouns have two parts, e.g. trousers (two legs) and shoes (left and right). You can use pair of to specify the number, e.g. a pair of skis, two pairs of shoes, three pairs of shorts.

Uncountable nouns and plural nouns

Uncountable nouns

NOTE

You can make many uncountable nouns singular using different nouns, e.g. a piece of toast, a news item, etc. In spoken English we use a bit with many nouns, e.g. a bit of information. a bit of advice.

Uncountable nouns, e.g. information, homework, advice:

- don't have a plural form, e.g. information (NOT informations)
- are not used with the indefinite article, e.g. (some) homework (NOT a homework)
- are used with a singular verb, e.g. my advice is ... (NOT my advice are ...)

The uncountable nouns below are often countable in other languages. Look at them carefully, and also notice the other words in bold that are often used with them.

Perhaps we could get some more information about the concert off the internet.

She gave me lots of advice about the best dictionary to buy.

Are we going to sell all the furniture? (= tables, chairs, armchairs, desks, etc.)

My knowledge (= what I know) of German is very limited. (= very little)

You need a lot of camping equipment. (c.g. tent, sleeping bag, things for cooking, etc.) She's worked hard and she's making good progress. (= she is improving/getting better) Is there any more news about the rail strike?

The teacher gave us a lot of homework last night.

I always put my camera in my hand luggage. (= bags you carry with you on the plane) Would you like some more toast? (= bread that is heated and brown on both sides)

Learners' dictionaries show countable nouns with a (C) and uncountable nouns with a (U). Some nouns can be countable with one meaning and uncountable in another.

book (C)	The boo
housework (U)	I did a le hair (U)	My hair
hair (C)	I'm start

The books are on the table.

I did a lot of housework (= cleaned the house) this morning.

My hair is getting very long. I must get it cut.

I'm starting to get a few grey hairs now.

C

Plural nouns

Plural nouns, e.g. trousers, stairs, sunglasses:

- have a plural form and aren't used with 'a/an', e.g. trousers (NOT a-trouser)
- usually take a plural verb, e.g. These stairs are dangerous (NOT These stairs is ...)
- can sometimes be made singular using a pair of, e.g. a pair of sunglasses

Here are some other nouns that are usually plural:

I've just bought a pair of trainers.

These shorts are too long.

I bought new pyjamas when I went into hospital.

The seissors are on the table.

I often wear sunglasses for driving.

You can weigh vourself on the scales in the bathroom.

Verbs + -ing form or infinitive

Verb + -ing form

Some verbs are followed by an -ing form if the next word is a verb. Here are some of them.

enjoy	finish	imagine	admit	avoid feel like (infml)	(don't) mind	can't stand	give up	deny

I've lived in New Zealand all my life; I can't imagine living anywhere else. Some people can't stand (= hate) working at the weekend but I don't mind. (= for me it's OK)

I remembered to buy my grandmother a birthday card. (= I didn't forget to buy one) I remember making cards for her when I was small. (= it's one of my memories from the past)

Verb + infinitive without 'to'

Two common verbs are followed by an object + infinitive without 'to': make someone do something, and let someone do something.

Adjectives

NOTE

We usually don't use 'very' with limit adjectives (NOT very marvellous) or 'absolutely' with scale adjectives (NOT absolutelygood), but we can use 'really' with both (really marvellous and really good).

'Scale' and 'limit' adjectives

LIMIT	SCALE		SCALE	LIMIT
terrible awful dreadful	(very) bad	OK	(very) good	marvellous terrific great Adjectives such as 'good' and 'bad' can be anything from weak to strong, e.g. quite good or very good. Adjectives at the end of the scale only have one extreme meaning and are often used on their own. We can make them stronger with 'absolutely' or 'really', e.g. absolutely great, really awful.

scale	limit	scale	limit
(very) small big	(absolutely) tiny huge/enormous	(very) pleased	(absolutely) delighted freezing tired	exhausted	nice	delicious (food only) interesting surprised	fascinating astonished	frightened (= afraid of) hungry	starving (infml)

Adjectives ending in -ing and -ed

A large group of adjectives can have an -ing or -ed ending. The -ing ending describes a person, thing or situation; the -ed ending describes the effect on someone of this person, thing or situation.

It was such a boring party. Most people left before 11 pm - they were so bored. I think the students are depressed because the weather is very depressing at the moment.

Other examples of adjectives ending -ing and -ed are:

surprising/ed	astonishing/ed
tiring/ed	exhausting/ed
interesting/ed	fascinating/ed frightening/ed	terrifying/ed
confusing/ed	exciting/ed
embarrassing/ed	disappointing/ed

John isn't very good at French, so I was quite surprised when he passed the exam – and I was absolutely astonished at his result. He got 98%.

I thought it was very exciting when I first got on a plane. Then we took off and flew into bad weather. I was terrified.

London has lots of streets with the same name; it's very confusing for tourists.

Greg was very disappointed when they lost the match. Then, the next day, his girlfriend left him, so now he's really depressed.

One of our teachers often forgets my name. It was funny at first, but now it's a bit embarrassing.

Dear Sandy Arrived on Sunday evening after a very tiring journey. We're very pleased with the hotel—our room is big and the food is nice. We've been lucky with the weather as well—it's been hot every day so far, so we've spent most of the time on the beach. Tomorrow we're planning to walk to a village a couple of kilometres along the coast. In this weather, I'm sure we'll be really tired by the time we get back, but it does sound an interesting place, so I'm looking forward to it. I'll write again in a couple of days and tell you about it. Love, Benita

C Other common prepositions of place

We drove along one side of the lake, then round the top shore, past the old castle, and finally through the village.

Adverbs of frequency usually go before the main verb, but not if the main verb is 'to be':

 I occasionally see them.

 They hardly ever go to the cinema now.

 I've never tried Korean food.

• Sometimes, occasionally and often can go at the beginning or end of the sentence:

Occasionally I work at the weekend.

Degree (= how much)

These adverbs are used with adjectives. They are more common in spoken English. Each group has a similar meaning, but read the notes below carefully.

I was a bit bored slightly	It's quite large fairly	They were very interesting extremely
No. of Street, or other party of the last	rather pretty	incredibly really

- A bit = less than quite, and quite = less than very. They are all very common.

- A bit, pretty and really are informal and much more common in spoken English. A bit is mostly used before negative adjectives or adjectives with a negative prefix.
 The food was pretty good. This watch must be really expensive.
 The hotel was a bit disappointing. The explanation was a bit unnecessary.
- Rather is like 'quite' and 'fairly', but we often use it when something is a surprise. Her cooking is rather good actually. (= better than I thought and a very nice surprise) People don't usually like factories, but I think they're rather interesting places.
- Incredibly and extremely are stronger than 'very'.

 We're extremely busy at the moment. I was incredibly tired at the end.

38.3	Respond to these sentences using 'rather' to show a positive surprise. (You can also add 'actually' at the end of the sentence; this is very common in spoken English.) 1 A: Was it a boring evening? B: No, itwas rather interesting, actually. 2 A: Were the children very noisy? B: No, they
38.4	Change the underlined adverbs to make these sentences more positive. 1 I thought they were very good . I thought they were incredibly good. 2 He's been getting quite good marks in his exams. 3 It's a pretty nice house. Change these adverbs to make them less negative . 4 John said the flat was very small . 5 They said it was fairly boring. 6 The clothes were very expensive.
38.5	Put a frequency adverb into each of these sentences to make a true sentence about yourself. Make sure you put the adverb in the correct place. 1 I buy clothes I don't like. 2 I remember my dreams. 3 I give money to people in the street. Now think about each of your answers to the above sentences. Do you think they are: a fairly typical? b slightly unusual? c extremely unusual? If possible, compare your answers with someone else.

Time and sequence

A When/as soon as

I'll phone my uncle when I get home.
As soon as I get home I'll phone my uncle.
When you've finished this exercise you can go home.
You can go home as soon as you've finished this exercise.

The meaning is the same, but as soon as suggests it is more immediate. When and as soon as can be followed by the present tense or the present perfect [but not will].

B Two things happening at the same time

Pat got ready while I cooked the dinner. [Two actions that need similar periods of time.] The accident happened while I was on my way to work. [A longer action 'on my way to work' and a shorter action 'the accident'. We can also use when or as here.] I saw him (just) as I came out of the office. [For two short actions happening at the same time we use as, and we can add just for emphasis, e.g. He opened the door just as I rang the bell.]

C One thing after another

We met the others in the café, and then/afterwards we went to the match. I finished my homework, and after that/afterwards I played some computer games. After my visit to New York, I decided to have a rest. We had something to eat before we went out.

We can also follow before and after with an -ing form:

After visiting New York, I ... We had something to eat before going out.

D A sequence of actions

We had a great holiday. First of all we stayed in St Moritz. Then/After that we drove down the coast for a few days. Finally, we went back to Switzerland to visit friends.

- We can use afterwards instead of 'after that', and especially if one thing happens soon after another, e.g. We had a couple of drinks, then afterwards we went back to the flat.
- If something happens after a lot of time or problems, you can use eventually or in the end, in place of finally, e.g. The weather was bad and the traffic was awful, but eventually we got there.

E A sequence of reasons

There are different combinations of words and phrases we can use here:

WORKER: Why can't we buy the new photocopiers now?

MANAGER: First(ly) we haven't got enough money. Second(ly) the new models are not available yet. And third(ly) the ones we have will be OK for at least six months.

- In spoken English we can start with for one thing, followed by and for another (thing).
 - A: What's wrong with that washing machine?
 - B: Well, for one thing it's too big to go in the space. And for another, it's very noisy.
- For a second or final reason, we also use anyway in spoken English. We can't go to that club because it's too far. Anyway, I'm not a member.

- 39.1 Underline the correct word(s) in brackets. Sometimes both answers are correct.
 - 1 We can have lunch (when/as soon as) we've finished this.
 - 2 I'll give them your message as soon as I (get/will get) there.
 - 3 Maria cleaned the kitchen (as/while) I did the bathroom.
 - 4 We must go to that gallery before (leave/leaving).
 - 5 I had problems at the shop but (eventually/finally) they gave me back my money,
 - 6 The phone rang (while/just as) I was shutting the front door.
 - 7 The letter arrived (while/just as) we were having lunch.
 - 8 We spent the morning in the park and (after that/afterwards) we went home for lunch.
- 39.2 Complete these sentences in a suitable way.
 - 1 I'll give you the answers when you've finished.
 - 2 We had a game of squash and afterwards
 - 3 I'll meet vou as soon as
 - 4 I must remember to lock the back door before
 - 5 He thinks he dropped the letter as
 - 6 I worked with a partner. I looked up half of the words while
 - 7 We had to wait for hours but eventually
 - 8 If we phone his home, he probably won't be there. Anyway,
 - 9 I saw him break the window just as
 - 10 I knew she was angry as soon as
- 39.3 Add a final sentence (starting with a suitable link word or phrase) to each of these dialogues.
 - I A: Why do you want to stay in this evening when we could go to Karl's party?
 - B: Well, for one thing because my ex-boyfriend will be there and I really don't want to see him. And
 - 2 A: What did you do?
 - B: First of all we spent a few days in Paris. After that we took the train down to Marseilles and stayed with friends.
 - 3 A: Why can't we send one of our staff to the conference?
 - B: Firstly, I don't think that the company should send anyone to the conference.

- 39.4 You spent a weekend at a hotel and had these problems:
 - There was very little variety in the food.
 - The service was very slow.
 - When you mentioned this to the staff, they were very rude.

The manager was on holiday during your stay, so you have decided to send a letter of complaint. Write the next part of this letter and then look at the model answer for the whole letter on page 219.

Addition and contrast

Also, as well, in addition

NOTE
In addition and what's more are more common in written English.

You can link two ideas in one sentence using and, e.g. The food is excellent and very good value. When we put this information in two sentences, we can use these link words.

The restaurant has excellent food. It's also very good value.

The food is excellent in that restaurant. It's very good value as well (or too).

You get very good food in that restaurant. What's more, it's open every day of the week. The set menu is £15, which is excellent value. In addition, they give you a free glass of wine.

It is common to include still for emphasis in these sentence contrasts.

NOTE

Although, despite, in spite of

When you contrast two ideas in one sentence, and the second idea is surprising or unexpected after the first, you can use these link words at the beginning or in the middle of the sentence.

She still won the game, although/though she had a bad knee.

Although/though some people were getting tired, we decided to carry on for a bit longer.

They went for a walk despite the fact that it was raining.

Despite having no money, he still seemed very happy.

They got there on time in spite of the delay.

In spite of all the problems, we still enjoyed the trip.

Despite/in spite of can be followed by a noun, an -ing form, or a clause beginning the fact that ...; although is only followed by a clause, e.g. Although she had ...

C

However

But contrasts two ideas in one sentence; however contrasts two ideas in two sentences. Though can be used in a similar way in spoken English, but it comes at the end of the clause.

I don't agree with a lot of his methods. However, he is a good teacher. We didn't like the town that much. However, the hotel was wonderful. I didn't like the film at all. It was better than sitting at home, though. They told us the shop was next to the station. We never found it, though.

Whereas, however

Whereas and however can contrast a fact or opinion about one person, place or thing, with something different about other people, places or things. The second fact is a contrast but not always a surprise. Notice that whereas contrasts two ideas in a single sentence.

Sarah is careful whereas Christopher makes lots of mistakes.

The south is hot and dry whereas the north gets a lot of rain.

Most big cats such as tigers like to live alone. Lions, however, spend a lot of time in groups.

Marcel said it was very interesting. However, most of them thought it was a fairly stupid film.

40.1 Organise these words into two groups: words that link ideas with a similar meaning, and words that show a contrast between ideas.

 - 3 We have decided to go (in spite of/despite) the cost of the tickets.
 - 4 They enjoyed the course, (although/whereas) it was very difficult.
 - 5 I love the sea (what's more/whereas) most of my friends prefer the mountains.
 - 6 We've found a lovely villa near the lake. (In addition/What's more) it has its own swimming pool, and we have free use of the owner's car.
 - 7 We told John the car was too expensive. (However/Although), he still bought it.
 - 8 Most people tried to help us. They were very friendly (too/as well).
 - 9 It's busy during the week. At the weekend, (however/whereas), it's very quiet.

Similarities, differences, comparisons, exceptions

A Similarities

These are ways of saying that two or more things are similar, or have something the same. Peter is like his brother/similar to his brother in many ways. (= they are the same in many ways)

Tom and Mark are very similar.

We have similar taste in music/art/etc. (= we like the same music/art/etc.)

There is a similarity between them.

Maria and Rehecca both passed their exams. (= Maria passed and Rebecca passed)
But neither wants to go to university. (= Maria doesn't want to go and Rebecca doesn't want to go)

I really like my cousin, and we have a lot in common. (= we have many of the same interests)

B Differences

His early films are very different from his later ones.

The two brothers are completely different. (= different in every way)

Paula is quite unlike (= completely different from) her sister.

They have nothing in common. (= they have no hobbies, interests or beliefs that are the same)

C Comparisons

When we compare two or more things, we study them to see how they are similar or different.

We want to compare the prices before we decide which one to buy. If you compare this one with the others, I'm sure you'll see a difference. House prices in the north are very low in comparison with London and the south. Our new flat is very big compared with/to our old one. (= if you compare it with/to our old one)

D Exceptions

An 'exception' is when we make a general statement about things or people and then say that one thing or person is not included, or is different from the others.

It snowed everywhere except (= but not) the west coast.

The museum is open every day except/apart from Sunday(s). Everyone heard the fire alarm except/apart from the two boys in room 7. We all agreed it was a good idea with the exception of George – but he always disagrees.

'Except' and 'apart from' have a similar meaning, but 'except' is more common. 'Except' can also be followed by 'for'.

Except for a few tourists, the streets were empty.

Reason, purpose, result, condition

A

Reason

I went home early because/as I was feeling a bit tired.

As I was feeling tired, I went home early. [We don't usually start a sentence with 'because'.] I was feeling a bit tired, so I went home early. [This is very common in spoken English.] The reason I went home early was that I was feeling tired.

We can also use because of, but with a different construction. Compare: They go there because the weather is wonderful. [because + noun + verb] They go there because of the wonderful weather. [because of + (adjective) + noun]

Due to means the same as because of, and is often used to explain the reason for a problem:

The plane was late due to bad weather. [Due to is often used after the verb 'to be'.]

B

Purpose

A 'purpose' is an intention or reason for doing something:

The purpose of the meeting is to plan the timetable. (= the reason for the meeting is ...)

We often introduce a purpose using so (that) or in order to:

I bought this book so (that) I can improve my English.

They went home early (in order) to watch the match on television.

We moved house so (that) we could send our children to this school.

She went into town (in order) to do some shopping.

In spoken English, we often say so (without that) and to (without in order). It is also common to use a modal verb, e.g. can or could, after so that.

C

Result

I left my ticket at home, so I had to buy another one.

They are a very big team and therefore they can get the best players.

I forgot to send the letters. As a result, no one knew about the meeting.

So is very common in spoken English, and usually links ideas in a single sentence.

Condition

You probably know if, but we also use other words to express conditions. Notice the tenses used.

We'll be late unless we leave now. (= if we don't leave now)

Unless the weather improves (= if the weather doesn't improve), we won't be able to go.

I have to go now, otherwise (= because if I don't) I'll miss the last bus.

You'll have to turn up the music, otherwise (= because if you don't) they won't be able to hear it.

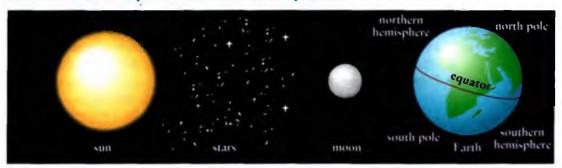

You can borrow it as long as you bring it back by Thursday. (= but you must bring it back) You can wear what you like as long as you look smart. (= but you must look smart)

Weather conditions

Notice that it is very common to form adjectives by adding '-y'.

noun	adjective	noun	adjective
sun	sunny	wind	windy
cloud	cloudy	ice	icy fog	foggy	shower	showery
heat	hot	humidity	humid

It was very cloudy in the morning, but then the sun came out (= appeared) in the afternoon. The accident happened in thick fog (= bad fog) on the motorway.

B Rain

For light rain (= raining a bit) we can use drizzle, e.g. It was cloudy with a bit of drizzle. For heavy rain (= raining a lot) we often use pour, e.g. It's pouring (with rain) outside. Rain for a short period of time is a shower, e.g. We had several showers today – some quite heavy.

The hurricane destroyed many buildings.

Thunderstorms

A period of very hot weather is sometimes called a heatwave, and it often ends with a thunderstorm. First it becomes very humid (= when the air feels wet), then you get thunder and lightning, and finally very heavy rain. Afterwards, it is often cooler and feels fresher.

Farm animals include: sheep, pigs, cows, horses, chickens and goats.

The body and what it can do

Parts of the body

The outer part of the body is covered in skin, e.g. Too much sun is bad for your skin.

Physical actions

People breathe through the nose or mouth, and breathe in and out 12–15 times a minute. People smile when they're happy, and sometimes smile at people to be polite. Funny things make people laugh – for example, when someone tells a joke. People sometimes cry if they're unhappy or receive bad news. They yawn when they're tired or bored.

People in some countries nod their head to mean 'yes', and shake their head for 'no'.

Describing people's appearance

A General descriptions

Positive: beautiful is generally used to describe women; handsome is used to describe men; good-looking and attractive are used for both. Pretty is another positive word to describe a woman (often a girl), meaning 'attractive and nice to look at'.

Negative: ugly is a very negative word; plain is negative but more polite.

Height and build medium height and very muscular

Another word for slim is thin, but with a more negative meaning, e.g. John is lovely and slim, but his brother is very thin. It is not very polite to say someone is fat; overweight is a bit less rude.

C Hair

brown straight wavy curly hair

D Special features

The man on the left has very pale skin (= light skin). He also has broad shoulders, with a scar on his forehead. The other man has dark skin. He also has a beard and moustache.

E Asking questions about a person's appearance

Q: What does she look like?

A: She's tallish, with short fair hair.

0: How tall is she?

A: About 1 metre 65.

Q: How much does she weigh?

A: I don't know - roughly 50 kilos, I guess.

We can use about and roughly to mean 'more or less' when talking about height (= how tall someone is), weight (= how heavy is someone) or age. The suffix '-ish' can be used at the end of some adjectives to mean 'quite' and at the end of some numbers to mean 'more or less'.

Talking about family and friends

I've got two brothers and a sister. My brothers are twins (= two children born to one mother at the same time), and they are three years younger than me. I'm the oldest and I take after my father (= I am similar to him in appearance and/or character). My sister takes after my father in some ways, but she looks like my mother (= her appearance is similar to my mother's). We're a close family (= we have a good relationship/see each other a lot). My best friend Pete is an only child (= without brothers or sisters); he spends a lot of time with us and he's almost one of the family.

Family names

Your parents give you a first name, e.g. James and Sarah are common first names in Britain. Your family name, usually called your surname, is the one that all the family have, e.g. Smith and Jones. Your full name is all the names you have, e.g. Sarah Jane Smith.

Changing times

In some parts of the world, couples may live together but do not get married. In this relationship they often call each other their partner. Where the child or children live(s) with just one parent, especially after the parents have separated (= they don't live together any more), these are sometimes called single-parent families.

Friends

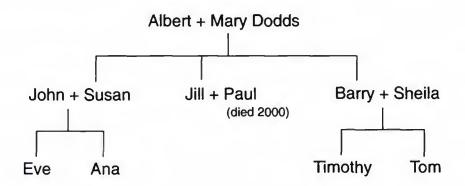

an old friend (= someone you have known for a long time) a close friend (= a good friend/someone you like and trust) your best friend (= the one friend you feel closest to)

Daily routines

Sleep

During the week I usually wake up at 6.30 am. I sometimes lie in bed (= stay in bed) for 5-10 minutes but then I have to get up (= get out of bed and put on clothes). Most evenings I go to bed about 11.30 pm, and usually go to sleep/fall asleep very quickly. If I have a late night (= go to bed very late; opp an early night), it's easy to oversleep (= sleep too long) the next morning, then I may be late for work. If I can, I have a sleep (= for a short period, e.g. half an hour) in the afternoon. At weekends I often have a lic-in (= stay in bed until later, e.g. 9.30 am).

Food

NOTE Usually there is no definite article (the) with breakfast, lunch or dinner.

In the week I have breakfast at 7.00 am, lunch at 1.00, and dinner around 7 pm. I also have one or two snacks (= food eaten between meals, e.g. a cake or biscuits) during the day. As I live alone/on my own (= without other people), I have to make my own breakfast and dinner (= prepare breakfast and dinner for myself), but during the week I don't bother (= don't make an effort) to cook very much. I also have to feed (= give food to) my cats twice a day.

Keeping clean

In the summer I have a shower in the morning, but in the winter I often have a bath instead (= in place of a shower). Sometimes I have a shave at the same time, or I shave when I have a wash and clean/brush my teeth after breakfast. I wash my hair two or three times a week.

English often uses a verb + noun construction, where other languages may use a verb or reflexive verb, e.g. I had a wash (NOT I washed or I washed myself); I had a rest (NOT I rested or I rested myself).

Work

In the morning I leave home about 8.15 am and get to work (= arrive at work) by 9 am. I have a lunch break (= period when I stop work for lunch) from 1-2 pm, and usually a couple of short breaks (= periods to relax) during the day. I leave work around 5.30 and get home about 6.15.

E

Spare time (= free time)

In the week I usually stay in (= stay at home) and watch TV or read in the evening. At the weekend I go out (= leave the house for social reasons, e.g. go to a cinema or disco), but I also have friends for dinner (= invite friends to my house and cook dinner for them), or friends come round (= visit me at the house) to play cards, e.g. poker or bridge.

Housework

I do the shopping (= buy the food and household goods) on Saturday. I live in the suburbs. (= areas where people live outside the centre of town)
I live in a residential area. (= a nice area of houses/flats, with no factories)

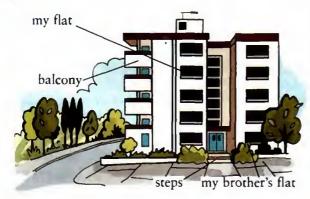

I live quite close to the station. (= near the station)

D

I live in a block of flats. My brother lives on the ground floor, and I have a flat on the third floor. Unfortunately there is no lift, so I have to climb (= go up/walk up) three flights of stairs to reach my flat. But I have a balcony with a great view of the park opposite the building.

Steps are outside a house or inside a public building. Stairs connect floors inside a house or building and are often covered with a carpet.

Describing the place where you live

My parents own their house (= they bought it/it belongs to them), but I rent a flat near my university (= I don't own it; I pay money every week to the owner). The rooms are tiny (= very small, opp huge/enormous), but they're light (opp dark) because they're on the top floor and get lots of sun. The flats on the ground floor are dark and also noisy (opp quiet) because they're nearer the traffic. Some rooms are draughty (= cold air comes in through windows and under doors), and are expensive to heat (= keep warm); but I've got central heating (= system of heating every room in a building) and the flat is in good condition.

Everyday problems

There's something wrong with ...

We use these expressions when there is a problem with machines and other things we use.

There's something wrong with the TV. (= there is a problem with it)

The light isn't working. (= not functioning/there is no light)

The light's not working properly. (= it is functioning but not very well)

The telephone is out of order. (= not in use/not functioning)

You often see a notice saying out of order on a public machine or piece of equipment that isn't working, e.g. pay phone, public toilet, etc. At home we usually say it isn't working.

В

In the home

Paul had a lot of problems yesterday.

He dropped a cup and it broke.

He got another cup, made some coffee, and then spilt it.

His shirt now has a large stain on it [see picture], and it is ruined. (= he can't wear it again, it has no use)

Then he decided to make some toast. He burnt the first piece (if you burn something, you damage it with heat or fire), then he realised he'd run out of bread (= the bread was finished/there was no more bread). He left home hungry and in a bad mood. (= angry and unhappy; opp in a good mood)

Out and about

You can say, 'I forgot my book', but if you say where this happened, you must use the verb 'leave', e.g. I left my homework on the bus. (NOT I forgot my books on the bus.)

After Paul went out, things got worse (= his situation became worse/there were more problems). He was late, and he missed the bus (= the bus came and went before he got to the bus stop), so he had to walk. That made him even later. He started running, but he fell over and cut himself (see picture). Later, when he got to school, he realised he'd lost some money and left his English book at home. (= forgotten his books)

I've got a terrible headache. (= a bad headache) I often get backache.

I woke up with a terrible pain in my chest. I get a pain in my leg when I run.

Ache is also a verb, describing a pain which continues for a long time but is not strong. By the end of the day, my feet were aching.

Hurt is common as a verb, used to describe a pain which is stronger or more sudden. My throat hurts when I speak. Where does it hurt? (= Where is the pain?)

Hospital treatment

John fell out of the window and hit his head on the ground. His wife called an ambulance but John was still unconscious when it arrived. He was rushed to hospital (= taken to hospital very quickly) and when he came round (= became conscious), he didn't know where he was.

Two players jumped for the ball and bumped into each other (= hit each other but it was an accident). One cut his head and had to go to hospital. He needed ten stitches.

Clothes

Pockets, buttons, collar, sleeves

For 'buttons' and 'zips', we usually use the verbs do up and undo.

Do up your jacket before you go out. I can't undo these buttons – my hands are too cold.

Verbs and phrases used with clothes

The following text shows common verbs and phrases in an everyday context.

I got up at 7.30, had a shower, got dressed (= put on my clothes), and had breakfast. It was a cold morning so I put on my coat and left home about 8.20. When I got to work I took my coat off and hung it up behind the door. It was hot in the office, so I took my jacket off as well. During my lunch break I had a look round the shops. I saw a nice jacket in one place and tried it on, but it didn't fit me – it was too small and they didn't have the right size. When I got home I took off my suit and changed into jeans and a T-shirt.

City life

Buildings and places

Here are some of the things you will find in most towns and cities. commercial centre (= area with lots of banks and company offices) shopping centre (= place with many shops, either indoors or outdoors) car parks (= places to leave many cars) factories (= buildings where you make/manufacture things, e.g. cars) skyscrapers/high-rise buildings (= buildings with many floors) libraries (= places where you can borrow books) suburbs (= areas outside the centre of town where people live)

B People on the move

For many people, the worst time of day is the rush hour (= the time when people travel to and from work, e.g. 7-9 in the morning). At this time of day the public transport system (= trains and buses) has to cope with (= manage something which is difficult) the people who live in the city, and also commuters (= people who live in the country but travel into the city for work). The roads get congested (= busy and full of cars) and people are always in a hurry (= want to get to another place very quickly). For many, this is very stressful. (= makes you nervous and anxious)

I live and work in the suburbs, but I usually go into town (= the town centre) two or three times a week. In the evening, it is pretty lively (= lots of people and lots of things happening), and there's plenty to do (= lots of possibilities, e.g. bars, discos, etc.). One problem is that there's nowhere to park in the centre, so I usually get/take a bus into town and take/get a taxi home if I'm late.

There are many common phrases using this construction: there's plenty to do; there's nothing to do; there's plenty to see; there's nowhere to go; there's nowhere to park, etc.

Advantages and disadvantages

'The best thing about living in a city is that:'

There's good nightlife. (= places to go at night, e.g. bars, discos, cinemas)

There's a wide range of shops. (= many shops selling different things)

You can get whatever you want. (= buy everything and anything you want)

There are lots of cultural activities. (e.g. museums, concerts, films)

It's cosmopolitan. (= full of people from many different countries and cultures)

There are more job opportunities. (= easier to find work)

'The worst thing about living in a city is that:'

It's very crowded. (= full of people)

People are more aggressive. (= seem angry and very unfriendly)

It can be noisy (opp quiet) and dangerous. (opp safe)

The streets are often dirty (opp clean) and it's polluted. (= dirty air)

There's traffic congestion (= too many cars) and parking is difficult.

There's a high crime rate. (= number of crimes)

You have a higher cost of living. (e.g. houses are more expensive, so is transport)

Life in the country

Surrounded by nature

I grew up (= spent my childhood) in a rural area (= an area in the country; opp an urban area). It was quite a remote area (= an area far from towns), and we lived in an old cottage (= a type of house, often small, you find in the country). My sister and I played a lot in the woods (= an area of trees like a small forest), not far from the nearest village (= a place smaller than a town). I loved being in the country. (NOT I-loved to be in the nature.)

B Working in the country

A lot of land in the country/countryside (both words are used) is used for agriculture/farming. Some farms grow crops (e.g. wheat, apples and potatoes) and some keep animals (e.g. cows, sheep and pigs). When I was younger, I worked on a farm during my school holidays.

Advantages and disadvantages

NOTE

The phrase you get is very common (opp you don't get).

'The best thing about living in the country is that:'

You get peace and quiet. (a common phrase to describe a place that is quiet and calm)

You get fresh air. (= air outside a building or town which is clean)

You're surrounded by lovely scenery and you can walk in the countryside.

The pace of life (= the amount of activity in life) is slower and more relaxed.

'The worst thing about living in the country is that:'

There isn't much nightlife.

Public transport (= buses and trains) is hopeless. (= terrible)

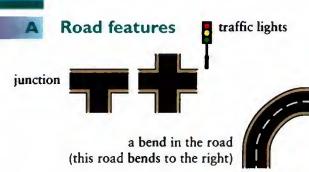

You don't get many shops.

There isn't much privacy (= private life) because everyone knows what you are doing.

An accident

pedestrian crossing

There was an accident on one of the main roads into town this morning. A lorry [see picture] broke down (= stopped because of a problem) in the middle of the road. It was eight o'clock, a busy time, and with the lorry blocking the road (= stopping things from moving in the road), there was soon a long tailback (= long line of cars that cannot move). One man in a Mercedes pulled out (= moved out to the centre of the road) to go round the lorry, but another car was coming in the opposite direction. The driver braked (= put his foot on the brake to stop the car), but he couldn't prevent the accident (= stop it happening) the Mercedes crashed into the front of his car. The driver of the Mercedes was OK, but the other driver was badly injured and both cars were badly damaged.

Giving directions

Go along here, turn right into the main road, then take the first turning on your left. Keep going (= continue in this direction), then turn left again when you get to (= reach/arrive at) the bank.

Common words and phrases

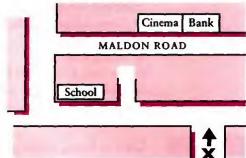

Cars and buses use the road; pedestrians (= people who walk) use the pavement. Cars mustn't park on the pavement.

The speed limit on motorways in Great Britain is 70 mph (120 kph). The police use speed cameras to catch people who are speeding/breaking the speed limit. (= going too fast) Most petrol stations (= places where you buy petrol) in Great Britain are self-service. (= there are no people to put the petrol in your car; you serve yourself and then pay) The other car was going very slowly, so I decided to overtake it. (= pass it on the outside)

- 8 I couldn't stop quickly enough, and I into the back of the car in front.
- 9 Cars, motorbikes and bikes can't go down there it's only for 67.3 Many road signs are international. Do you know or can you guess what these mean?

^{*}mph = miles per hour (50 mph = 80 kph approximately) 67.4 Answer these questions about your own country. If possible, compare with someone else.

- 1 Do you have a speed limit on motorways? If so, what is it?
- 2 How many lanes do motorways usually have?
- 3 Do drivers usually stop for pedestrians at pedestrian crossings?
- 4 Are most petrol stations self-service, or do people serve you?
- 5 Do many people park their cars on the pavement?
- 6 Do you have speed cameras at the side of the road?

Transport

Vehicles

Vehicle is the general word for all types of road transport.

- B: I came by bus.
- A: And the others?
- B: Sue and John came by car.

Trains

These are things train passengers (= people who travel by train) often say or ask:

Single to Edinburgh, please. (= a ticket to Edinburgh)
Return to Bath, please. (= a ticket to Bath and back)
Does this train go to (= take me to) Oxford?
Do I have to change? (= change to another train)
Is it a fast train or a stopping train?

B: Number three.

A: And when is the train due to arrive? (= timetabled to arrive)

Buses

Sometimes buses are punctual (= arrive at the correct time), but not always. Where I live, buses should run (= travel/operate) every ten minutes, but sometimes I wait at the bus stop for half an hour in a queue (= line of people), and then three buses come together, and they're all full up. (= full of people) Other times the bus is early and I miss it. (= I don't catch it)

Taxis

Taxis show what you have to pay on the meter. When you want the driver to stop, you can say this: Could you drop me here? (= Could you stop here?) People often give taxi drivers a tip (= extra money as well as the fare). For example, if the fare is £8.40, you can give the driver £9.

Work: duties, pay and conditions

A

What do you do?

NOTE

You can also say: I haven't got a job. (NOT I haven't got a work.)

People may ask you about your job. They can ask and you can answer in different ways:

What do you do? What's your job?	I'm a banker/an engineer/a builder. (I'm + 'a(n)' + job) I work in a bank/marketing. (work in + place or type of
What do you do for a living?	work) Livery for UnionBank/First (work for a name of company)

(= I'm employed by Union Bank/Fiat, etc.)
I'm self-employed. (= I work for myself.)

R

What does that involve?

NOTE

We often use responsible for/in charge of for part of something, e.g. a department or some of the workers; and run for control of all of something, e.g. a company, a shop, a course,

When people ask you to explain your job, they want to know your responsibilities (= your duties/what you have to do), or something about your daily routine (= what you do every day). They can ask like this: What does that involve? (= What do you do in your job?)

General duties/responsibilities

I'm in charge of/responsible for security in the factory. (= the place where a product is made)

I deal with/handle customer complaints. (= take all necessary action when customers are unhappy)

I run the coffee bar in the museum. (= I am in control of it/I manage it)

Daily duties/routines

I have to go to/attend (fml) a lot of meetings.

I visit/see/meet clients. (= people I do business with, who pay for my service)

I advise clients. (= give them help and my opinion)

My job involves travelling. [Notice the -ing form after involve.]

Working hours

For many people in Britain, working hours are 8.30–9.00 am to 5.00–5.30 pm, so people often talk about a nine-to-five job (= regular working hours). Some people do flexitime (= they can start work earlier or finish later); and some do shiftwork (= work at different times, e.g. during the day one week, at night the next). Some people work/do overtime. (= work extra hours for more money)

Pay and conditions

Most workers are paid (= receive money) every month. This is called a salary. We can also use the verbs earn/make, e.g. I earn/make $60,000 a year. (= My salary is $60,000 a year.) Some people are paid for the hours they work. The lowest amount for one hour's work is called the minimum wage. This amount is decided by the government. With most jobs you get 4-6 weeks' paid holiday; you also get sick pay. (= pay when you are ill)

The total amount of money you receive in a year is called your income. This could be your salary from one job, or the salary from two different jobs. You have to pay part of your income to the government; this is called income tax.

The career ladder

Getting a job

When Paula left school, she applied for (= wrote an official request for) a job in a local company. They gave her a job as a trainee (= a very junior person in a company). She didn't earn much (= didn't get much money/she had a low salary), but they gave her inhouse training (= the company gave her help and advice to become better), and she went on/did several training courses.

Moving up

Paula worked hard and her prospects (= future possibilities in the job) looked good. Her manager/boss (infml) was very pleased with her progress and she soon got a good pay rise (= more money every week/month). After two years she was promoted (= was given a higher position with more money and responsibility). After five years she was in charge of (= the boss of) a department with five employees (= workers) under her. (= under her control) employer (= person who employs); employee (= worker) trainer (= person who gives training); trainee (= person who receives training)

Leaving the company

By the time Paula was 30, she decided she wanted a fresh challenge (= a new exciting situation) and a career change (= to work in a different kind of job). She wanted to work abroad (= work in another country), so she resigned (= officially told the company she was leaving her job; also quit infml) and started looking for another job. After a month she got a job with an international company which involved (= included) a lot of foreign travel. She was very excited about this and at first she really enjoyed it, but ...

Hard times

NOTE
Paula didn't have a job for nine months. (NOT She didn't have a work.)

After six months, Paula started to dislike the travelling and living in hotels. She didn't do well in the job either. After a year the company dismissed/sacked her (= told her to leave), and Paula found life difficult. She was unemployed/out of work (= without a job) for nine months until she got a part-time job (= working only part of the day or week) in the kitchen of a restaurant.

Happier times

Paula loved the restaurant. She enjoyed learning to cook, and two years later she took over (= took control of) the restaurant. After a year, she opened a second one, and after 20 years she had 10 restaurants. Last year Paula retired (= stopped working completely) at the age of 50, a rich woman.

In the office

B Office work

Brian works for a company which produces (= makes/manufactures fml) furniture. He works in an office, opposite the factory where the furniture is made. This is how he spends his day:

He works at a computer most of the time, where he types [see picture] letters and reports, and sends lots of e-mails.

He sends invoices (= paper showing products sold and the money to pay) to customers, and does quite a lot of paperwork, e.g. filing reports (= putting them in a file/filing cabinet), etc.

He has to make appointments for his boss and put them in the diary. He also arranges meetings for managers from different departments and types the agenda (= list of things to discuss at a meeting). Sometimes he has to attend (= go to fml) meetings and take the minutes. (= write down everything that is said during the meeting)

Like most people who work in an office, Brian has his problems. This is how he explains them.

The photocopier is broken.

The printer isn't working.

We've run out of paper. (= the paper is finished) The computer's down (= not working) at the moment. One of my colleagues (= people you work with) is off (= not at work) today and we've got loads of work (= a lot of work infml) to do.

Business and finance

Banks and business

Companies often borrow money from banks to finance (= pay for) investments (= things they need to buy to help the company in future, e.g. machines). This money is called a loan, and companies have to pay interest on it, e.g. if you borrow £1,000 for a year, and the interest rate is 10%, then you have to pay back £1,000 + £100 in interest.

Profit and loss

The main aim/objective of a company (= most important thing for a company to do) is to make a profit (= receive more money than it spends; opp make a loss). If a company does not make a profit or a loss, it breaks even. For example:

Most new companies are happy if they break even in their first year of business.

Companies receive money from selling their products (this money is called the turnover), and they spend money (called the expenditure) on these things: raw materials (= materials in their natural state, e.g. coal and oil are important raw materials used to make plastics), and overheads (= things a company must always spend money on, e.g. rent, electricity, etc.). For many companies, labour costs (= money paid to workers) are very expensive.

The first conversation is informal between friends; the second is a formal business call.

NOTE

When British people answer the phone at home, they usually just say 'hello' and occasionally they give their number. Usually they do not give their name.

MARY: Hello?

RUTH: Is that Mary? (NOT Are you Mary? or Is it Mary?)

MARY: Yeah.

RUTH: Hi. It's Ruth. (NOT I am Ruth or Here is Ruth)
RECEPTIONIST: Good morning. Chalfont Electronics.

PAUL SCHOLES: Oh, good morning. Could I speak to Jane Gordon, please?

RECEPTIONIST: Yes. Who's calling, please?

introduction)

Telephone problems

4.20 pm You phone your sister Susan, but it's engaged (= the phone line is busy). In other words, Susan is already on the phone (= using the phone) talking to someone else

4.30 pm You phone again but a stranger answers and says: 'I think you've got the wrong number.' (= you have dialled another number, e.g. 637424 and not 627424)

4.35 pm You get through to (= make contact with) your sister's number, but she's out (= not at home). Her husband answers and says: 'Susan won't be back (= will not return) for an hour', so you leave a message: 'Could you ask Susan to ring me when she gets back (= returns)?' The husband agrees to give Susan the message: 'I'll tell her you called.'

6.00 pm Susan phones you back but you're out. She leaves a message on the answerphone. Her message is: 'Jean, this is Susan. I'm just returning your call. I'll give you a ring (= phone you) tomorrow. Bye.'

Useful vocabulary

To phone another city/country, you need the (dialling) code, e.g. the code for Cambridge is 01223.

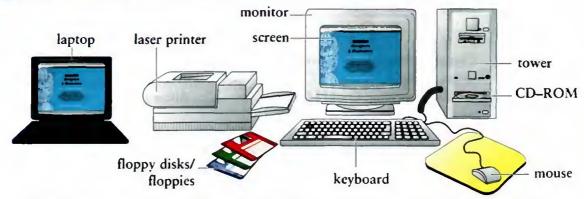

Phone calls in a town are local calls; calls to another country are international calls.

Text messages are short written messages you can send from one mobile phone to another.

C The Internet

The Internet/the Net is a system connecting (= linking) millions of computers worldwide (= around the world). In order to get online (= become connected) you must connect your computer to a phone line using a modem. You also need an Internet Service Provider (ISP), e.g. aol, freeserve. On the Internet, there are different search engines you can use such as 'Yahoo' or 'Excite' to find what you are looking for.

When you go online (= use the Internet), you can browse (= look at) different websites and download stuff from the Internet. (= move data from one computer to another)

You can e-mail me at pd@freeserve.co.uk. (spoken as: pd at freeserve dot co dot uk)

Important vocabulary

Some computers and programs are more user-friendly (= easy to use) than others. If your computer has a virus (= a software problem), it may crash (= stop working). Because of this you should make a back-up copy. (= a second copy on a floppy disk)

You go to school and go to university (NOT go to the-school/university). Other examples are: go to church (= to pray), go into hospital (= as a patient because you are ill), go to bed (= to sleep), go to prison (= as a criminal). There are also public/independent/private schools and parents pay to send their children to these schools. The school fees are expensive. About 7–10% of the population go to private schools in the UK.

The school day is divided into 6-7 lessons in different subjects, with a break (= period of rest between work) in the morning and afternoon. There is also a one-hour lunch break. The school year is usually divided into three terms (= periods of study). Each term is about 13 weeks, and each week pupils do (= study) about ten subjects. At the end of the school year they do/take an exam in each subject. After the holidays, pupils go back (= return) to school.

You can normally do/study these subjects at university but not always at school. (The underlining shows the syllable you must stress in each word.)

medicine	law	philosophy

architecture	p o litics	business studies

Studying at (a British) university

If you want to go to (= enter fml) university, you must first pass examinations that most students take at the age of 18 (called 'A' levels). Students usually take three or four 'A' levels (examinations in three or four subjects), and they must do well to get a place at university.

If you get a place, most students have to pay part of their tuition fees (= money for teaching). Some students also get a government grant (= money to pay for living expenses, e.g. food and somewhere to live), but most students need a loan (= money you borrow from a bank) to cover the cost of (= pay for) university life. Students at university are called undergraduates while they are studying for their first degree.

Most university courses last (= continue for) three years, some courses last four years, and one or two courses, e.g. medicine, are five years. During this period students can say they are doing a degree, and when they finish and pass their exams, they can say they have a degree. This can be a BA (= bachelor of arts) or a BSc (= bachelor of science). For example:

He hopes to get a place at Oxford. She's doing a degree in physics. She's got a BA in French.

She's at university in Glasgow.
I've got a degree in German from York University.
He's got a BSc in computer science.

Postgraduate courses

When you complete your first degree, you are a graduate. Some students then go on (= continue) to do a second course or degree, called a postgraduate course/degree (or postgrad course). These students are then postgraduates and they often study for:

an MA (Master of Arts), e.g. I'm doing a Masters in English or an MSc (Master of Science), e.g. She did a Masters in biology or a PhD (Doctor of Philosophy) [minimum three years], e.g. He's got a PhD in computer science.

When people study one subject in great detail (often to find new information), we say they are doing research, e.g. My sister is doing research into/on the effects of stress at work.

School vs university

School has teachers and lessons; at university you have lecturers and lectures. The head of department (also called a 'faculty', but less common in spoken English) at a university is usually called a professor. (An ordinary teacher or lecturer is not a professor.)

83.1 Read these sentences spoken by university students. What is each person studying?

- 1 I'm concentrating on Le Corbusier and Frank Lloyd Wright. architecture
- 2 We have to know every bone in a person's body.
- 3 The way we use fertilisers is much more precise than 20 years ago.
- 4 We're going to concentrate on Freud and Jung this term.
- 5 I've been reading some books on time management.
- 6 Expressionism was really a reaction to the work of the Impressionists.
- 7 We've spent a lot of time on American foreign policy.
- 8 You must know this case; it's one of the most famous in legal history.

Now mark the stress on each of your answers, check with the pronunciation in the Index. and practise saying the subjects.

83.2 What do you call:

- 1 the money some students receive if they get a place at university?
- 2 the qualification you get at the end of university?
- 3 the name we give students during this period at university?
- 4 teachers at university?
- 5 students when they have completed their first degree?
- 6 students studying for a second, higher degree?
- 7 the study of one subject in great depth and detail, often to get new information?
- 8 the talks/lessons that students go to while they are at university?

83.3 Replace the underlined verbs with less formal verbs that have the same meaning in the context.

- 1 Is it very difficult to obtain a place at university?
- 2 You have to pass exams before you can enter university.
- 3 He's studying physics, I think.
- 4 Did she receive a grant for her course?
- 5 The course continues for three years.

83.4 Fill the gaps with a suitable word.

- 2 She's got a degree economics.
- 3 He's research various types of nervous disorder.
- 4 She's already got a BA. She's doing a degree now.
- 5 Who is the professor in your?

83.5 Answer these questions. If possible, compare your answers with someone else from your own country and/or someone from a different country.

- 1 Do you need to pass examinations before you can go to university?
- 2 Do some students get a grant to study at university?
- 3 Is the tuition free if you go to university?
- 4 Do most degree courses last three years?
- 5 What is your equivalent of the British BA or BSc?

Law and order

The police

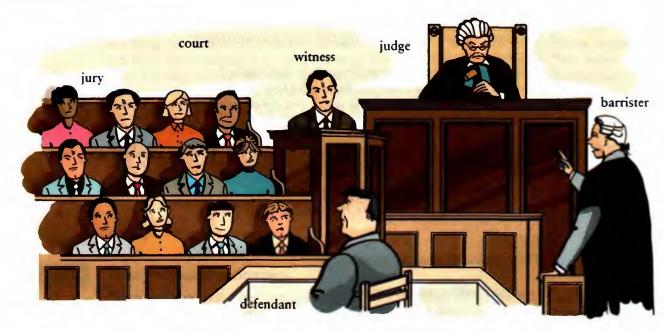

When someone commits a crime (= breaks the law and does something illegal/against the law/wrong), the police do a number of things.

They investigate the crime. (= try to find out what happened and who is responsible) If they catch (= find) the person they believe is responsible for the crime, they will arrest them. (= take them to the police station because they think the person has committed the crime)

At the police station, they question them. (= ask them questions)

If they are sure that the person committed the crime, the person is charged with the crime. (= the police make an official statement that they believe the person committed the crime) For a serious crime (e.g. murder), the person must then go to court for trial. [see section B]

B In court

In court, the defendant must try to prove (= provide facts to show something is true) that they did not commit the crime. In other words, they must try to prove that they are innocent (opp guilty). Twelve members of the public (called the jury) listen to the evidence (= information about the crime, for and against) and then make their decision. People who see a crime are witnesses, and they usually give evidence at a trial.

Punishment (= what a person must suffer if they do something wrong)

If someone is guilty of a crime, the judge will give the sentence (= the punishment). If a person is guilty of murder, the sentence may be 10–20 years in prison. The person then becomes a prisoner.

For crimes that are not serious (called minor offences, e.g. illegal parking), the punishment is usually a fine. (= money you have to pay)

Two men robbed a jeweller's in west London early this morning. They broke in (= forced their way into the building, e.g. they broke a window) around 7am and took/stole rings and necklaces valued at over £10,000. Several witnesses (= people who see a crime) saw them leave the shop and get away/escape (= go away from a dangerous situation) in a blue car. The police believe both men are armed (= have guns) and extremely dangerous.

D Crime prevention

What can governments do to prevent crime (= stop crime happening) or reduce it (= make it less)? These things happen in some countries.

The police carry guns. (= have guns)

The police are allowed to (= are permitted to/can) stop anyone in the street and ask them questions.

Criminals receive tough (= hard) punishments, e.g. go to prison for long periods.

There is capital punishment (= death, e.g. by injection or electric chair) for some crimes.

What can people do to protect themselves (= keep themselves safe) and their property (= home and land)? They can do these things.

Avoid (= keep away from) dark streets late at night (e.g. midnight).

Avoid wearing (= try not to wear) expensive rings or watches. [Note the -ing form after 'avoid'.]

Have a burglar alarm.

Put money and valuables (= things worth a lot of money) in a safe.

Leave lights on at home when they go out. Lock doors and windows when they go out.

Politics

Types of government

Monarchy: a state ruled by a king or queen (= the king or queen has power and control). Some countries, e.g. the UK, have a monarchy, but the monarch is not the ruler. Republic: a state governed by representatives (= men or women chosen by the people) and a president, e.g. the USA or France. People who believe in this system are republicans. Democracy: a system of government in which leaders are chosen by the people, e.g. France or the United Kingdom. People who believe in this system are democrats. Dictatorship: a system of government in which one person rules the country (= one person has total power). This person is called a dictator.

Political beliefs

noun politics	person politician	adjective political conservatism	conservative	conservative socialism	socialist	socialist social democracy	social democrat	democratic liberalism	liberal	liberal communism	communist	communist

People who believe in social democracy are social democrats. It is a democratic government, with liberal beliefs.

Political positions

The government is very reactionary (= they don't want any changes). The opposition (= the main political party which is not in government) is more radical (= they want to make changes to the system). The Prime Minister is quite right-wing (= conservative/ capitalist), and the leader of the opposition is more left-wing (= socialist).

Elections

In a democracy, people vote for (= they choose in a formal way) the political party (e.g. social democrats) they want to form the government. They do this in an election (= when everyone votes). Quite often elections take place/are held (= happen) every five years. 42% voted for the socialists in the election. (= The socialist party got 42% of the votes.) They elected a new president last year. (= The new president was elected last year.)

The election takes place next week, and the Liberals hope to form the next government.

Government

Political systems are different all over the world (= in every part of the world). In the UK, when a political party wins a majority (= 51% or more) of seats (= official places in parliament) in an election, they are in power (= the government of the country), and their leader (= person in control of the party) becomes Prime Minister.

The government must have policies (= programmes of action) to run (= manage and control) the country. This means, for example, an economic policy (for the economy), and a foreign policy (for actions by the country in other parts of the world).

86.1 What kind of political system is being described?

- 1 The country is ruled by a king or queen.
- 2 The country is governed by men and women who are chosen by the people.
- 3 The country is ruled by one person.

Bureaucracy

What is it?

Bureaucracy is the rules used by officials (or bureaucrats) to control an organisation or country. It is often used in a negative way to mean unnecessary rules, e.g. filling in (= completing) forms, and waiting for documents. (= pieces of paper with official information)

Important documents (e.g. passport) identity card (= card with your name, date of birth and photo to show who you are. The United Kingdom is one of the few countries where people do not have identity cards.) driving licence (= the official document which permits you to drive on public roads) visa (= document which gives you permission to enter, pass through or leave a country)

Officials often check (= look at and examine) your documents, e.g. customs officials check your passport or identity card, and the police may check your driving licence.

We also use the word certificates for official pieces of paper stating certain facts: a birth certificate gives the important facts about your birth, exam certificates state you have passed certain exams, and a marriage certificate states you have married.

Some documents are for a fixed period of time, e.g. a visa may be for six months. At the end of that period, the visa runs out (infml)/expires (fml) (= it finishes/comes to an end). If you want to stay in the country, you must renew it (= get a new one for a further period of time). You can normally renew a visa, a passport, a membership card for a club, etc.

C

Forms

There are situations where you need to fill in (= complete) forms.

landing card: a form you may have to fill in when you enter another country enrolment form (sometimes called a registration form): a form you often have to fill in when you join a school or course application form: a form where you write details about yourself, often when applying for a job

With many forms, you will need to sign them (= write your signature) and print your full name underneath. (= under it)

Signature Julia Gonzales

Name (in capitals) JUIA GONZALES

Language of forms

Forms often contain formal expressions. In spoken English, this may be different.

NOTE In written and spoken English, we use surname (= your last name or family name).

Global problems

A

The environment (= air, water and land around us)

Many people believe we are destroying the environment. (If you 'destroy' something, you damage it so badly it does not exist any more.) For example:

Cars and factories pollute the air. (= make the air dirty)

We continue to cut down rainforests and increase the dangers of global warming. (= an increase in temperature because of increased carbon dioxide around the earth)

How can the planet (earth) survive? (= continue to exist)

- We must save/conserve (= use less and use well) natural resources (e.g. water, oil and gas). We mustn't waste them. (= use them badly)
- We must protect animals and plants. (= keep them safe from human damage)
- We mustn't throw away bottles and cans. We must recycle them. (= use them again)

Many of the verbs above form common nouns:

verb	noun	verb	noun
destroy	destruction	pollute	pollution survive	survival	protect	protection waste	waste	recycle	recycling

Natural disasters

A disaster is when something terrible happens and people often die. A natural disaster is caused by nature. For example:

famine (= situation where people die because there isn't enough food) drought (= no rain for a long period of time; this often causes famine) floods (= too much rain in a short period of time, causing damage to houses and land) earthquakes (= violent movement of the earth; buildings are often destroyed)

War and peace

A war is a long period of fighting between two or more countries. Some countries have been at war (= fighting a war) for years. There are also civil wars (= fighting between two or more groups in the same country). These are some of the most violent – soldiers (= the people in the army) are killed, but many civilians (= people not in the army or navy, etc.) also die. Wars often end with a peace settlement. (= both sides agree to stop fighting)

Terrorism

NOTE

Assassinate = to kill a famous person, often for a political reason.

This is violent action for political reasons. People who do this are terrorists. A common terrorist crime is planting bombs (= putting bombs in public places) often to kill/assassinate important people. Terrorists also hijack planes and buses (= take control of them by force). The people on board then become prisoners (called hostages). The terrorists may agree to release the hostages (= permit the hostages to go free) if governments agree to their demands (= what they ask for), perhaps giving them money or releasing other terrorists from prison.

Departures

When you arrive at the airport, you can look at the departures board which shows the flight numbers (e.g. BA735), departure times (e.g. 0840) and destinations (e.g. Venice). At the check-in desk they weigh your luggage. Usually you can take about 20 kilos. If it is more, you may have to pay excess baggage (= you pay extra). They also check your ticket and give you a boarding card for the plane with your seat number on it. Then you go through passport control where an official checks your passport, and into the departure lounge. Here, you can also buy things in the duty free, e.g. perfume or alcohol. About half an hour before take-off, you go to a gate number, e.g. gate 14, where you wait before you get on the plane. When you board (= get on) the plane, you find your seat. If you have hand luggage, you can put it under your seat or in the overhead locker above your seat. If there are no delays (= when you have to wait until a later time for some reason), the plane moves towards the runway. (= the area where planes take off and land)

Delay can be used as a noun and verb. It is a common word at airports.

There's a two-hour delay on our flight.

We were delayed at Athens airport.

B

The flight

The captain (= the pilot) or cabin crew (= people who look after passengers) may say these things:

- Please fasten your seat belt and put your seat in the upright position.
- May we remind passengers (= to passengers: please remember) that there is no smoking now until you are inside the terminal building. (= the part of the airport where passengers arrive and depart)

• The cabin crew are now coming round with landing cards. (= cards you have to fill in when you enter certain countries)

When the plane lands (= arrives on the ground), you have to wait for it to stop. When the doors are open, you get off the plane and walk through the terminal building and go to the baggage reclaim (= place where you collect your luggage). You go through customs (GREEN = nothing to declare; RED = goods to declare). At most airports, you can hire a car. (= rent a car)

a double room = room for two people with one large bed a twin room = room for two people with two single beds full board = includes breakfast, lunch and dinner half board = includes breakfast and dinner
B&B = just bed (= the room) and breakfast

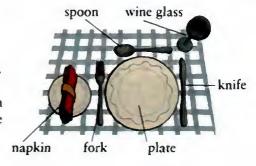

B Visiting a hotel or restaurant

At busy times, e.g. the weekend, you may need to book (= reserve) a room in a hotel or a table in a restaurant in advance (= before you go). When you arrive at a hotel you check in at reception (= tell the receptionist you have arrived); at a restaurant you ask for a table (e.g. Could we have a table for two? or I booked a table for two. The name is Carter.) In restaurants you can tip the waiter/waitress (= give money for good service) if service is not included; in a hotel you may also give the porter (= person who carries luggage) a tip. At the end of a meal in a restaurant or the end of your stay in a hotel, you pay the bill.

In a restaurant

You can see the food available on the menu, and choose wine (and other drinks) from the wine list. There are usually three parts to a meal: a starter (e.g. soup), a main course (e.g. meat or fish) and a dessert (e.g. fruit or ice cream). A drink before the meal is often called an aperitif.

D Useful words and expressions

In a hotel

GUEST: Are you fully booked (= completely full) next week?

Do you have any rooms available (= free rooms) this weekend?

Is breakfast/dinner included? (= Does the price include breakfast/dinner?)

A sightseeing holiday in the city

A Famous places

Many people go on a sightseeing tour of a town (usually in a bus); they can also go on a tour of a castle, cathedral, etc. When you are sightseeing, it helps to buy a guidebook (= a book of information for tourists) and a map of the town you are visiting.

B Tourist activities

go sightseeing do a bit of/a lot of sightseeing have a look round (= visit somewhere casually) take pictures (= photos) spend money get lost (= lose one's way) have a great/nice/terrible time go out (= leave home/your hotel to go to a social event, e.g. restaurant or disco)

We went sightseeing almost every day.
I didn't do a lot of sightseeing in Warsaw.
We had a quick look round the shops.
I wanted to have a look round the art galleries.
I took hundreds of pictures on holiday.
I spent lots of money – too much.
We got lost almost every day in London.
They had a lovely time in Venice.
On holiday we went out every night.

C Describing 'places'

The word place can describe a building, an area, a town, or country: Bruges is a lovely place (= town) and we found a really nice place (= hotel) to stay. The town is full of interesting places. (= areas/buildings)

Venice is beautiful but it's always packed (= very crowded) with tourists.

New York is very cosmopolitan. (= full of people from different countries and cultures)

St Petersburg has lots of historic monuments. (= important places built a long time ago)

Many beautiful cities are now very touristy. (= a negative word: 'too much tourism')

São Paolo is a really lively place (= full of life and activity) and the nightlife is fantastic.

To ask if it is 'a good idea' to visit a place, use be worth + -ing or noun.

- A: If I go to Scotland, is it worth spending a few days in Edinburgh?
- B: Yes, definitely and Glasgow is worth a visit as well.

Holidays by the sea

Places to stay

When people go on holiday they stay in various places (= a number of different places): some go to hotels; some rent an apartment (a holiday flat); some prefer to go camping and sleep in a tent.

B

On the beach

Many people spend their holiday in seaside resorts (= towns by the sea for tourists, e.g. Malaga, St Tropez, Okinawa) where they can go to the beach every day.

You sometimes get a gentle breeze (= a light pleasant wind) from the sea, which helps to cool you down on hot days, but it can also burn you [see section D].

Seaside activities

I like to go for a walk along the cliffs.
On sandy beaches, I often play volleyball.
I somerimes go windsurfing/snorkelling/diving.
I don't swim much but I like to have a paddle.
(= just put my feet in the sea)
My sister likes to have a swim in the sea, but not if it is very rough (opp calm).

diving snorkelling windsurfing

In the sun

Many people go to the beach to sunbathe (= lie in the sun) and get a suntan (= when the body goes an attractive brown colour from the sun; we can also say, be brown). This can be dangerous, and you should always put on suntan lotion (= cream or oil to stop your skin burning). This will also help you to get a tan and protect your skin (= keep your skin safe). If you don't protect your skin, you may get sunburn (= the skin becomes red and very painful). For total protection, use sunblock.

We use last to talk about the duration of something, from the beginning to the end.

Numbers

Cardinal numbers

379 = three hundred and seventy-nine	2,860 = two thousand eight hundred and sixty
5,084 = five thousand and eighty-four	470,000 = four hundred and seventy thousand
2,000,000 = two million	3,000,000,000 = three billion

There is no plural 's' after hundred, thousand, million and billion when they are part of a number. When we are talking more generally, they can be plural, e.g. thousands of people; millions of insects.

B Ordinal numbers and dates

One problem with dates is that we write them and say them in a different way.

We write 4 January (or 4th January), but say the fourth of January or January the fourth. We write 21 May (or 21st May), but say the twenty-first of May or May the twenty-first. 1997 = nineteen ninety-seven 2003 = two thousand and three

C Fractions and decimals

$1\frac{1}{4}$ = one and a quarter	1.25 = one point two five
$1\frac{1}{2}$ = one and a half	1.5 = one point five
$1\frac{3}{4}$ = one and three quarters	1.75 = one point seven five

D Percentages

26% is spoken as twenty-six per cent.

More than 50% of something is the majority of it; less than 50% is the minority.

E Arithmetic

There are four basic processes. Notice how they are said when we are working out (= calculating) the answer.

+ = addition
- = subtraction
x = multiplication + = division e.g. 6 + 4 = 10 (six plus/and four equals/is ten) e.g. 6 - 4 = 2 (six minus four equals/is two) e.g. 6 × 4 = 24 (six times/multiplied by four equals/is twenty-four) e.g. 8 + 2 = 4 (eight divided by two equals/is four)

Some people are not very good at mental arithmetic (= arithmetic in your mind without paper) and often get stuck (= have a problem) if they have to work something out. The easiest way is to use a calculator. (= small electronic machine for working out numbers)

F Saying '0'

This can be spoken in different ways in different contexts.

telephone number: 603 724 = six oh three, seven two four Distance, size and dimension

Distance

These are common ways of asking about distance, with typical replies.

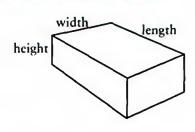

A: How far is it? B: The nearest one (= the shortest distance from here) is about five miles.

- A: Is it far? B: No. It's just round the corner. (= very near)
- A: Is it a long way? B: No, not far (= quite near) - about ten minutes' walk.
- A: Is it very far? B: Yes, quite a long way. or Yes, too far to walk.

We can use far in a question or a negative, but not in a positive statement on its own (it's a long way NOT it's far). But we can say: 'It's too far to walk.'

Size and dimension

We can ask and answer about dimensions like this:

questions		answers
What's the length of the room? or What's the width of the path? What's the height of the wall? What's the depth of the pool?	How long is the room? How wide is the path? How high is the wall? How deep is the pool?	It's 5 metres (long). It's 60 cm (wide). It's two metres (high). It's 3 metres (deep).

NOTE

We usually use tall to describe people, trees and buildings; and high to describe walls. mountains, etc.

Size in people and things

We use different words to describe the size of people and things. For example:

- a tall girl (opp a short girl)
- a long book (= many pages) (opp a short book)
- a deep lake (= many metres) (opp a shallow lake)

a thick book (opp a thin book) fat people (opp thin people)

a wide road (opp a narrow road)

We can use big or large to describe size in English, but not great, which usually means 'fantastic' in spoken English. But we can use great big to say that something is very big, e.g. There was a great big dog in the garden, so I staved outside.

- 95.1 Think about the building you are in now, and answer these questions using expressions from the opposite page.
 - 1 How far is it to the nearest shop?
 - 2 How far is it to a bank?
 - 3 Is it very far to the nearest bus stop?
 - 4 Is it very far to a post office?
 - 5 Is it a long way to the nearest swimming pool?
 - 6 Is it a long way to the next big town?
 - 7 How far is the nearest railway station?
 - 8 Is it far to the centre of town?

If possible, ask someone else the same questions and compare your answers.

95.2 Write down at least six different questions you could ask about the distance, size or dimensions of: the lake, the mountain, the football pitch and the person.

95.3 Disagree with the speaker in the dialogues below. Look at the example first.

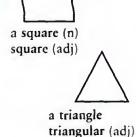

Example	A:	Is	it	a	long	film?

B: No, it's quite short.

- 1 A: Is he very fat?

- 2 A: The water's deep, isn't it?
 - B: No, it's
- 3 A: Is the road very wide at that point?
 - B: No,
- 4 A: He's quite tall, isn't he?
 - B: No,
- 5 A: They only live in a small place, don't they?
 - B: No, it's
- 6 A: It's a fairly boring place, isn't it?
 - B: No,

a point (n) pointed (adj)

We haven't got a round table.

An unusual star-shaped candle.

a circle (n) round (adj)

B

Colours

You will already know most of the common colours. Here are some that are less common.

Shades of colour (= degrees and variation of colour)

NOTE

With some colours, we use pale, not light, e.g. pale yellow, pale pink.

She bought a dark green skirt.

He's wearing light blue jeans.

The shirt is pale yellow.

Patterns (also called 'designs')

These are common on clothes and furniture.

striped shirt

tartan skirt

check dress

Use of the suffix -ish

When we want to say that a shape is 'almost round' or a colour is 'a sort of green', we can also express this idea with the suffix -ish.

She had a roundish face.

He wore a greenish tie.

The wall was a vellowish colour.

Vague language

Vague means 'not clear or precise or exact'. For example, we can say: I have a vague idea where it is. (= I know more or less but not exactly) In spoken English, we use a lot of vague words when we are not being very precise.

A Thing(s)

- To refer to actions, ideas and facts: The main thing (= fact) about John is that he always stays calm. That was a terrible thing (= action) to do.
- To refer to countable objects (often the speaker and listener know what the object is): What's that thing (bicycle) doing in the house?

 Put those things (cups and saucers) in the cupboard.
- To refer to a general situation:
 How are things at school? Things (= life in general) are going really well.

B Stuff

We can use stuff with uncountable nouns (or a group of countable nouns) when we don't need to give the exact word. Often the listener knows what the speaker is talking about. Just leave that stuff (= different items of clothes) on the floor. I'll clear it up. I play guitar but not much classical stuff. (= music)

C A sort of ...

We often use this phrase when we cannot find the exact word to describe something. The walls are a sort of yellow. (= not exactly yellow, but more or less)

It's a sort of horror film. (= not exactly a horror film, but more or less)

D And things like that/and that sort of thing

We use these phrases so that we don't need to continue the examples. I don't eat chilli and garlic and things like that. She wears a lot of Armani and Versace and that sort of thing.

E Sometime/any time

It'll be ready sometime next week. (= next week but I don't know when)
You can collect it any time after 10. (= at 10.30 or 12.30, or 3.00 in the afternoon, etc.)

F A bit

It usually means 'a little', but it can also mean 'quite a lot' in spoken English. Could you speak up a bit? (= a little) I can't hear you very well. I thought the hotel was a bit (= quite) expensive, actually.

G Approximately

These words are used with numbers and all mean approximately.

It'll take you about/around 40 minutes.

We're expecting 100 people, more or less.

We interviewed 20 or so, I think.

98.1	What could thing(s) and stuff refer to in these sentences?

Formal and informal English

Formal English

Formal English is more common in writing than speaking, and is used in notices, business letters and legal English. You will hear some examples in spoken English, e.g. airport announcements.

Notice in café: Only food purchased (= bought) here may be eaten on the premises.

Police statement: I apprehended (= caught) the accused outside the supermarket.

Theatre announcement: The play will commence (= start) in two minutes.

Business meeting: The meeting will resume (= start again) this afternoon at 2 pm.

Lawyer in court: My client had a broken ankle, thus (= so) he couldn't drive the car.

Business letter: I regret to inform you (= I'm sorry to say) that we are unable to ... (= can't)

Notice: If you require (= need) further assistance (= more help), please contact ...

Airport announcement: Will passengers for Miami please proceed to (= go to) gate 36.

B

Informal English

Informal language is more common in spoken English. For example:

- most uses of get are informal (see Unit 29)
- many phrasal verbs are informal (see Units 23 and 24)
- many idioms are informal (see Unit 13)
- most shortened words are informal (see Unit 100)

Informal language is not suitable for formal written English, but in spoken English (and most e-mails or letters to friends) it will help you generally to sound more natural.

I had to go and pick up (= collect) the kids (= children) from school.

I reckon (= think) we'll get (= receive/obtain) the money pretty (= quite) soon.

I'm just going to the loo. (= toilet)

Do you fancy going out? (= Would you like to go out?)

I managed to fix up (= arrange/make) an appointment for 7.30.

My flat is very handy for the shops. (= near the shops and very convenient)

I thought the book was terrific. (= marvellous)

Most of the students are bright (= intelligent) but Paul is really thick. (= stupid)

What's up? (= What's the matter?)

We must get in touch with them (= contact them) very soon.

When we get to (= reach/arrive) the hotel, I'll have a word with (= speak to) them.

I offered him ten quid (= pounds), but the guy (= man) wasn't interested.

A: Here's the book I promised you.

B: Oh, cheers. (= thank you. It can also mean 'goodbye'.)

Did you bring your bike? (= bicycle)

Slang

This is a form of very informal language. It includes words used by particular groups of people, e.g. young people often refer to 'drugs' as dope, and also words which many people think are impolite and unacceptable in most situations. You should probably not use these words, but some of them are quite common. For example, the word piss is a slang word meaning to urinate/go to the toilet, and it is also used in a number of other slang expressions with different meanings.

Piss off! (= go away) He was pissed. (= drunk) It's pissing with rain. (= raining heavily)

		formal	informal
handy purchase thus quid apprehend guy	loo resume terrific commence reckon cheers	purhase

99.2 Find a synonym in the box for each of the words in 99.1.

so	buy purchase	convenient	catch start	man	start again	pounds
thanks	think	marvellous	toilet

- 99.3 Replace the underlined words and phrases in these sentences with more informal language.
 - 1 Where did you purchase that book?
 - 2 I'm just going to the toilet.
 - 3 The woman on the desk told us to proceed to gate 12.
 - 4 What's the matter?
 - 5 Would you like to go out for a meal?
 - 6 When are you going to collect your bicycle?
 - 7 My flat is five minutes from where I work, thus it's very convenient.
 - 8 The man in the market wanted twenty pounds for this ring.
 - 9 Most of the children are very clever.
 - 10 I think it'll commence quite soon.
- 99.4 Now rewrite the underlined parts of this letter in more suitable formal English.

Dear Mr Collins.

We're really sorry to say that we can't lend you the sum of £500 that you need, but it may be possible to provide you with a loan for some of the money.

If you would like to contact the branch and have a word with Mrs Jenkins, she will fix up an appointment with the assistant manager. He will be happy to discuss the matter with you.

Yours sincerely,

99.5 Dictionaries will tell you if a word is formal or informal/spoken. Use your dictionary to find out if these underlined words are formal or informal/spoken. What do they mean?

I thought the film was a drag. Someone has pinched my pen. Patrons only. He's a nice bloke.

It was too much hassle to go. Smoking isn't permitted.

Abbreviations and abbreviated words

A

Letters or words?

Most abbreviations are spoken as individual letters:

BBC	British Broadcasting Corporation	MP	Member of Parliament
UN	United Nations	PM	Prime Minister
EU	European Union	ID	Identification, e.g. Do you have an ID card?
USA	United States of America	PC	Personal computer
WWW	World Wide Web	CV	Curriculum vitae
ISP	Internet Service Provider	CD	Compact Disc

A few abbreviations are spoken as words, e.g. AIDS (e.dz) (= Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome), and occasionally they can be spoken as individual letters or a word, e.g. VAT /væt/ or [V-A-T] Value Added Tax (= a tax on goods/products in EU countries)

If you don't understand an abbreviation, you can ask about its meaning like this:

A: What does V-A-T stand for?

A: What does EU stand for?

B: Value Added Tax.

B: European Union.

Written forms only

Some abbreviations are written forms only; they are still pronounced as full words.

Mr /mistə/
Mrs /mists/ (= a married woman)

St Mark (Saint Mark)
Dean St (Dean Street)

Ms/moz/ (= a woman who may be single or married)

Dr (Doctor)

Abbreviations as part of the language

Some abbreviations (from Latin) are used as part of the language.

We write 'etc'.

39.4 Possible answer:

Dear Sir,

I have just returned from a weekend break at The Royal Hotel, and I'm afraid it was not a very enjoyable stay. Firstly, there was very little variety in the food and sometimes no choice at all. Secondly, the service was very slow most of the time and we had to wait half an hour between courses. And finally, when we complained to the head waiter about these delays, he was very rude and the service did not improve.

I sincerely hope that action will be taken to improve the restaurant, and I shall expect a letter of apology and explanation for the very poor standard of service in a hotel with such a fine reputation.

Yours faithfully,

You can watch TV/telly while you're waiting for him, and please help yourself to anything in the fridge. CC/cc stands for 'carbon copy' and is used in business letters and e-mails to show you are sending a copy to someone else. In the past, carbon copies were made using carbon paper. We don't use this any more, but we still use the abbreviation.

Acknowledgements

For this new edition I am particularly grateful to lexicographer Julie Moore. Working with the Cambridge International Corpus of written and spoken English, she has provided information and insights which have been invaluable in guiding lexical selection and example sentences in the book.

A number of people have reviewed different parts of the manuscript and given me extremely useful feedback. My thanks to the following reviewers:

Miles Craven, Cambridge, UK Ervl Griffiths, Cambridge, UK

Agnieska Lenko-Szymanska, Milanowek, Poland

Chris Nicol, Cannes, France Jeanine Saelens, Heule, Belgium

Olga Vinogradova, Moscow, Russia

My editor Alison Silver has been wonderful. She has worked with great professionalism on a long and intricate manuscript, and the final product is immeasurably improved as a result of her contribution. My thanks to Ruth Carim for her proof-reading and comments on the final manuscript.

Finally, I would like to thank Oxford Designers & Illustrators for their elegant design of this new edition, and Nóirín Burke at Cambridge University Press. Nóirín has guided the project from its infancy, and coordinated the various stages of both editions with calm efficiency.

CAMBRIDGE INTERNATIONAL CORPUS

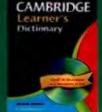

The Cambridge International Corpus (CIC) is a collection of over 700 million words of real spoken and written English. The texts are stored in a database that can be searched to see how English is used. The CIC also includes the Cambridge Learner Corpus, a unique collection of over 50,000 exam papers from Cambridge ESOL. It shows real mistakes students make and highlights the parts of English which cause problems for students.
